Bonner Asks Ottawa Aid On Mica Creek Dam Plan

B.C. Power Board 'Interested' in Massive Project

OTTAWA (BUP)—Both American and Canadian private concerns have expressed interest in building the proposed $247,000,000 Mica Creek dam on the upper Columbia River, B.C. Attorney-General Robert W. Bonner said today.

Bonner said the B.C. Power Commission also was interested in building the dam and he "believed it would be a proper agency to undertake that development."

But he said federal co-operation, either in the form of grants or low-interest loans, would be necessary. He also said federal-provincial co-operation would be needed to get industrial users for the power the dam would create.

Bonner told the Commons committee on external affairs that the technical evidence would permit the project to "go ahead now." He said the province was anxious to have Mica Creek and the Arrow Lakes storage plan pushed ahead.

But for the Mica Creek dam, he said, there were "economic factors yet to be settled." Markets for the large blocks of power would have to be found. He said industries that would give at least primary processing to British Columbia's strategic metals should be brought into the province to use the power.

He told the committee he feared a government bill to license improvements on international rivers would have the effect of "ruling the B.C. Power Commission off the Columbia."

Eden Willing To Hold Talks With Bulganin

Says East-West Tension Easing

LONDON (UP) — Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden said today he is hopeful a meeting with Russia can be arranged "shortly" to discuss east-west problems.

He also declared, "I am perfectly ready to meet Marshal Bulganin."

At the same time, Eden said Britain is ready to assist in talks between the United States and Communist China on the Formosa crisis.

Eden told the House of Commons that recent moves on German rearmament and an Austrian state treaty had brought a meeting with the Soviets closer.

"We have been agreed that before there can be useful talks with Soviet Russia, the Paris agreements must be ratified and progress made with the Austrian treaty," Eden stated.

"Now, fortunately, there has been progress with both these matters," he added.

UNITY BOLSTERED

This advance, Eden said, is "no accident but the logical outcome of Allied policy in building up the unity of the west."

Then Eden made his statement on the proposed meeting with Kremlin leaders.

"As a result of the recent progress, the way is now clear as far as we are concerned. We are ready and anxious to explore with the Soviet government the possibility of reaching agreement on all outstanding matters between east and west.

CAUSED $5 MILLION DISASTER

Cloud Seeding Brings Floods Declares World's Top Rainmaker

BY BILL RICHARDSON

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) —The man who pioneered the science of making rain believes armed forces experiments may have caused the disastrous Missouri Valley flood of June, 1952.

Dr. Irving Langmuir, a Nobel Prize winner and consultant for General Electric Co. experiments with rainmaking, also declared in an interview:

1. A United States Air Force test on a tornado off the eastern coast Oct. 17, 1947, may have turned the twister off its course and pushed it into Savannah, Ga., with damage of $5,000,000.

2. There is evidence that rainmaking in some areas may create drought in others.

Langmuir was interviewed while attending the international arid land symposium where scientists from 18 countries are seeking answers to the rapidly growing arid regions which already cover a third of the earth's land surface.

WANTED TO STOP

He declared that he thinks now—and insisted at the time—that a single silver-iodide generator operating at Alamogordo, N.M., caused the steady downpours which drowned the Missouri valley three years ago.

"We had been seeding for some time, and the storms kept getting bigger and better. I told them (the military heads administering the project) that I felt we ought to stop seeding as the rains in the Missouri valley kept falling.

"But the administrator of the project was on vacation at the time. No one would take responsibility for ordering the seeding stopped.

"Finally I told them we must stop, things were getting serious.

"We stopped on July 2. On July 7 the flood just about devastated Omaha."

Langmuir explained how a lone cloud-generator in New Mexico could affect the weather so far away: The silver iodide particles are sent into the air, say, in New Mexico. Winds from the west blow them across the Mississippi, where they come in contact with moist air masses coming in from the gulf of Mexico.

TRIGGERS OTHERS

A particle of silver iodide about the size of a pencil dot is enough to affect a cubic mile of air weighing 100,000,000 tons, Langmuir said. Once a storm has been started, it triggers other storms. And if the cloud seeder is restarted at intervals, you get rain at about the same intervals.

Langmuir also said that on Oct. 17, 1947, an air force plane seeded a tornado heading north off the east coast. The twister turned 120 degrees "which the weather bureau said was impossible" and smashed on to Savannah.

"There was not one chance in 7,000 that the tornado would have turned if it had not been seeded," Langmuir said. "I had suggested that we wait until the storm was farther north and out to sea to experiment."

Local Rain-Making Affecting Weather?

Generator Operator Says Experience Has Improved Earlier Techniques

Belief that this spring's below-par weather can be blamed on rain-making was discounted today by John Walser, meteorologist operating the silver iodide plants on Vancouver Island.

A statement by Dr. Irving Langmuir, world's top rainmaker, that he believed silver iodide experiments had caused floods, brought a reply from Mr. Walser that the New Mexico generators were engaged in down-wind seeding.

"The 1952 experiments were aimed at checking down-wind effect, and generators were not always operated just when it was desirable to induce rain in an immediate area," he said.

Mr. Walser has charge of the operation of six silver iodide generators on the west coast. His firm is under contract to the B.C. Power Commission to increase the precipitation on the Campbell River watershed, heighten the snow pack and try to avert a brown-out threat caused by depletion of John Hart development reservoirs.

"My organization operates its generators only when we know that the silver iodide will be utilized in a specific target area in close proximity to the generators," he said. "The practice discribed by Dr. Langmuir in the 1952 experiment is what we now call 'indiscriminate' seeding."

"The Yucca Flat atom bomb test that has been postponed so often is being delayed by meteorologists until they can be sure the 'fall-out' will be within the test area. We do the same with a 'fall-out' of rain," he said.

Several Vancouver Island residents, though, still object to rain-increasing (scientists cannot yet "make" rain) activities as interefering with natural conditions.

"I've been opposed to it all along," said George I. Warren, commissioner, Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau. "It is cheating nature, and against it except in an extreme emergency. I took this stand when the Powell River Company first talked about rain-making two years ago."

The mainland firm has a contract with Water Resources Development Corporation of Denver, Colo., to increase rainfall on the watershed supplying its huge pulp mill. The company has six generators at east coast Vancouver Island points that have been in operation close to a year.

Rainmaking is an activity that should be discussed by the B.C. Natural Resources Conference, according to Roderick L. Haig-Brown, author, angling authority, and conservationist.

"It seems to be presuming a lot for someone to interfere with the elements," he said when the power commission first started the scheme at Campbell River.

RIGID CONTROL IN CANADA

No 'Impure' Vaccine Here

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

Canada's "rigid controls" of every phase of manufacture make it "almost impossible" for impure Salk vaccine to reach Canadian children.

Federal health officials at Ottawa acted today to reassure Canadian parents following a U.S. government ban against use of vaccine manufactured by Cutter Laboratories of Berkeley, Calif. Canada doesn't use the Cutter vaccine, and there'll be no stoppages in the nationwide inocculation campaign.

The U.S. ban was "a precautionary measure" because one child died and at least nine—possibly 11 — suffered paralysis from polio after receiving Cutter vaccine. U.S. government experts say they don't think the Cutter vaccine was responsible, but they want to be absolutely sure.

APPEAL TO PARENTS

Meanwhile, health authorities in the U.S. and Canada are urging parents and local health authorities to go ahead with any planned inoculations with Salk vaccine.

Dr. Leonard A. Scheele, U.S. surgeon-general, personalized the issue by announcing his seven-year-old son will be inoculated snortly in the Washington, D.C., program.

At Ottawa, an aide of Minister of Health Paul Martin said most of the vaccine in use in Canada at present—amounting to treatment for between 600,000 and 700,000 children—was produced by the Connaught Laboratories at the University of Toronto. The Institute of Microbiology at Montreal is the other Canadian producer.

The official did not know how much vaccine had been sold in Canada by two American companies — Eli Lilly and Parke Davis—licensed by Canada, but it was not thought to be a great deal. They account for about 60 per cent of the U.S. national production.

Victoria MHO Warns Against Delaying Shots

Victoria-Esquimalt medical-health officer, Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffey, today warned parents that it would be dangerous to lose faith in Salk vaccine because of reports from California that inoculated children had contacted polio.

"People must understand that this is polio season," she said. "No one should slacken their effort in obtaining immunization for their youngsters as the vaccine becomes available."

She pointed out that "five or six out of 50,000 is a very small average — and those children probably were infected before inoculation."

LITTLE REACTION

Dr. Mahaffey said that in Victoria and Esquimalt the health department has almost completed administering second dosage of the vaccine.

A careful check of reactions showed that one child developed a sore throat but this later was diagnosed as scarlet fever. Two children had a slight rash on their arms after the injections, one complained of soreness. None were ill in any way.

Polio usually becomes more severe with the warmer weather. It is almost at its peak at present in the area where the outbreak was reported. Health officials are anxious that every child who can be inoculated, receive his three shots promptly.

Saigon Fighting Kills 150

Absent Emperor Calls Parley

By LOUIS GUILBERT
United Press Correspondent

SAIGON, Indo-China (UP)—The bloodiest battle of Free Viet Nam's swelling civil war raged in the streets of Saigon today.

At least 150 government troops loyal to American-backed Premier Ngo Dinh Diem were killed. At least 300 more were wounded.

Casualties among the rebellious Binh Xuyen sect of former river pirates were not known. The Binh Xuyen, who have controlled both vice and the police force in Saigon, have sworn to overthrow the premier.

PEACE CONFERENCE

In a surprise move, absentee Chief of State Bao Dai sent a cable from his villa on the French Riviera calling both sides to a peace conference at Cannes on May 5.

An entire quarter of thatched huts housing refugees from the Communist-controlled north went up in flames.

Screams of the trapped victims rose above the din of artillery and the sound of machineguns.

POLICE CHIEF FIRED

Immediate cause of the trouble was the dismissal of the Saigon police chief Lai Van Sang, a leader of the Binh Xuyen.

The fighting flared when Binh Xuyen troops, barricaded in the Petrusky high school, opened fire on a passing government convoy.

MAJOR ATTACK

Gen. Le Van Vie, the rebel commander, then unloosed a major attack on Saigon police headquarters.

Vie's forces also shelled the premier's palace-residence with mortars. Meanwhile government forces set fire to rebel gasoline stores in suburban Cholon.

The French promptly moved in and obtained a temporary cease-fire. But 80 minutes later, artillery firing started again. Smoke covered the city. Women, children and men refugees from the Communist-controlled north were in panic.

AMERICANS SAFE

Hundreds of Americans with military, economic and other missions previously had been ordered out of danger and were presumed to be safe.

Government and rebel forces agreed to the second cease-fire of the day at 5 p.m.

But tonight the government launched an all out counterattack which seemed aimed at completely destroying the rebel forces.

The bodies of eight victims, including that of a fire captain, were recovered from ruins of the Green Mill Hotel. The other four victims, including three children, died in the apartment house blaze.

Twenty-two residents of the four-story hotel, near downtown Chicago, leaped from the top floor of the hotel and were injured.

Boat Crew 'Just Minutes Late' To Revive Drowned Island Man

NANAIMO (BUP) — A railroad worker and his daughter drowned Wednesday during a holiday fishing trip in storm-tossed Nanoose Bay when the crew of a fishing boat were "just a few minutes too late" to rescue them.

Railway brakeman Herbert Beasey, 45, and his daughter, Mrs. Susan Square, 21, both of Wellington, near Nanaimo, were the victims of the double tragedy.

The fishboat Manhatten II entered the bay, 12 miles north of here, a few minutes after the 14-foot boat capsized and recovered the body of Beasey. Artificial respiration was applied but he was not revived.

Dragging operations were being conducted by the RCMP today for the body of the young woman, which was believed to have been swept out to sea.

Capt. Randolph Thompson of Gabriola Island, skipper of the Manhattan II, said "we started artificial respiration but could not revive him. We were just a few minutes too late.

The family learned of the tragedy when Beasey's son, Herbert, went to join the party on their outing Wednesday night.

Beasey, a brakeman on the Esquimal and Nanaimo Railway, is survived by his wife, a second daughter, and three other sons. Mrs. Square's husband is in South America.

Girl Sent Death Threat To 'Undercover' Officer

VANCOUVER (CP)—A note threatening to kill undercover constable Joe Haywood was written by an emotional 17-year-old girl, police said today.

A high police official, who asked that his name not be used, said "the girl wrote it herself, for reasons that can only be guessed at."

The note, reading "You will get it sooner or later, Haywood," was turned over to police Wednesday by the girl. She said it had been forced into her hands by two men, one with black eye and bandage around his neck.

She said the men trailed the bus she boarded until she took the note to police. No charges were laid against her.

Const. Haywood has been placed on day shift duty as a court officer attached to the services division. Guards still accompany him home.

Const. Haywood was shot at Monday while patrolling a lonely residential area beat. The shooting has been officially linked to his testimony which convicted William Semenick of drug trafficking and brought him a 10-year sentence.

IN PARLIAMENT

St. Laurent's Jobless Aid Proposal Hit By CCF

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

A CCF member says Prime Minister St. Laurent plans only paltry relief payments to the unemployed instead of providing work and wages.

Claude Ellis, Regina, criticizing the prime minister in Wednesday's budget debate, said the government is quite prepared to permit a certain level of unemployment in the country.

His speech was an attack on proposals by Mr. St. Laurent Tuesday to the federal-provincial conference, offering federal contributions to relief costs when unemployment passes certain levels in each province. He suggested a federal share ranging from 30 to 50 per cent depending on the number of jobless.

Mr. Ellis said the prime minister is "absolutely refusing to consider anything but a paltry contribution to direct relief."

When a CCF member recently demanded jobs for the unemployed, he said, "the prime minister refused bluntly even to consider a work and wages program—he thinks only in terms of direct relief."

Requires Surplus of Workers

Supporters of free enterprise accepted a certain amount of unemployment.

"Big business requires a surplus of workers over jobs . . . They see nothing wrong in a certain percentage of unemployment in this country."

The prime minister's proposals showed the government held the same view and considered it had no responsibility toward supplying even relief until unemployment passed an unspecified level

Mr. Ellis also criticized the budget, saying there is something wrong with an income tax policy that permits "coupon clippers" to get $11,000 a year without being liable to tax while wage-earners started paying at $1,000.

He said the only suggestion from the Liberals to ease unemployment was that of Elmore Philpott, Vancouver South, who proposed that up to 40,000 young men could be given intensive military training each winter.

An 83-year-old member of parliament who also is a clergyman asked another law-making cleric Wednesday to go on a pub crawl with him.

The invitation came from the Rev. Dan McIvor, a United Church minister and Liberal member for Fort William, Ont. He said that if Stanley Knowles, CCF member for Winnipeg North Centre and also a United Church minister, took him up on it the tour would prove that reports of "hard times" in Canada were nonsense.

McIvor, Canada's oldest member of parliament, doesn't drink or smoke. But he said that "when I want to get a holiday, I often make a trip around the beer parlors."

Knowles was reported to be considering the invitation.

C. E. Johnston (SC—Bow River) Wednesday said he welcomes legislation extending provisions of Alberta's provincial health plan to the residents of Banff National Park.

He drew attention to a news report carried by the Canadian Press reporting his speech in the House last Monday in debate on an amendment to the National Parks Act.

The report erroneously said Mr. Johnston opposed the amendment. What he said was that he was grateful for it but opposed the method by which contributions to the hospital care fund would be collected from Banff residents.

A New Brunswick opposition member charged Wednesday that his province was given a "complete runaround" by the federal government on the Beechwood power project on the St. John River.

Thomas Bell (PC—St. John-Albert) said that after two years of "playing around" and leading people to believe federal help might be forthcoming, the government now has decided not to participate.

New Brunswick was going ahead with the project on its own.

He challenged New Brunswick Liberal members, particularly Mr. Gregg who represents the New Brunswick constituency of York-Sunbury, to speak up in the House on the matter.

Defense Minister Campney reported Wednesday that only one loss—an $80 refrigerator—was involved in 32 irregularities in the army's No. 11 Works Company, British Columbia, reported by the department's chief auditor from August, 1950, to February, 1952.

He said that in nine of the 32 instances there was no violation of regulations or instructions. In the other 23, investigation found no evidence of culpable neglect and no ground for legal action.

Mr. Campney's report was tabled in reply to questions by Davie Fulton (PC-Kamloops) about the irregularities, reported by the defense department's chief auditor, J. A. Kidd, and referred to in the Currie report of Nov. 26, 1952.

Mr. Fulton's questions were an attempt to obtain further information about No. 11 Works Company, Royal Canadian Engineers, where an investigation of large-scale thefts now is under way.

His questions, however, referred only to the chief auditor's reports of irregularities referred to in the Currie report. As listed by Mr. Campney, these did not include the large-scale thefts of hand tools now being investigated and covered only the 18-month period up to February, 1952.

GOES TO JAIL—Oleo heir Minot F. (Mickey) Jelke was sentenced today in New York to two to three years in jail for compulsory prostitution. Judge sentenced the pint-sized playboy on each of two counts on which he was convicted April 1, but specified the sentences should run concurrently. He could have been sentenced to 20 years on each count. In his first hearing Jelke was sentenced to three to six years in jail, but won a new trial.

SCENIC DOMES BIG HIT

CPR's Speedy New Streamliner Like 'Trickle of Quicksilver'

By PETE LOUDON

After a trip on CPR's new trans-continental train The Canadian, there's a tendency to feel like Cinderella at midnight. Life turns back into a pumpkin.

Poll the passengers—you get a lot of reasons. The sudden progress of train development in Canada startled most the folk who had avoided train travel since the war years' shuffle.

See the Canadian in the yards, like a trickle of quicksilver, and the thrill starts. Board, and for awhile you're lost.

The coaches are the least changed. But broad picture windows, bright linoleum and adjustable seats, all reserved, give new comfort. The sleeping cars will be the lure to win customers back from the airlines though.

FOUR TYPES

One sleeper offers four types of accommodation. Cheapest is the upper-and-lower berth space but only eight beds are available in that class. For about 10 per cent more, a traveler may have one of eight roomettes.

A sliding door ensures privacy. The roomette has its own toilet and sink. It has a seat by day and bed by night, individual air conditioning controls and controls for piped music.

Pay a bit more and there are bedrooms, double, or fold back a wall and a family of four can join quarters, with two complete plumbing units. Once again, air conditioner and music, with a fan and a shoe locker (put 'em in dull, take 'em out in the morning shining) added.

If money isn't scarce at your home, try a drawing room, which has space for a sofa and two reclinable chairs by day.

You might get a drawing room or bedroom in the forward part of the observation car if fortunate. This gives quickest access to the end-of-the-train lounge with its easy chairs, magazines and writing table. In the same car is the cocktail bar, open in B.C., Ontario and Quebec.

Most popular feature of the train, the scenic dome, is above the cocktail lounge and reached by a stairway from the lounge. A similar dome is above the coffee bar.

Tinted glass gives free all-round vision. By night, lighted only by the moon, the dome car is as popular as by day. Dome travel is equally available to all passengers.

90 MPH

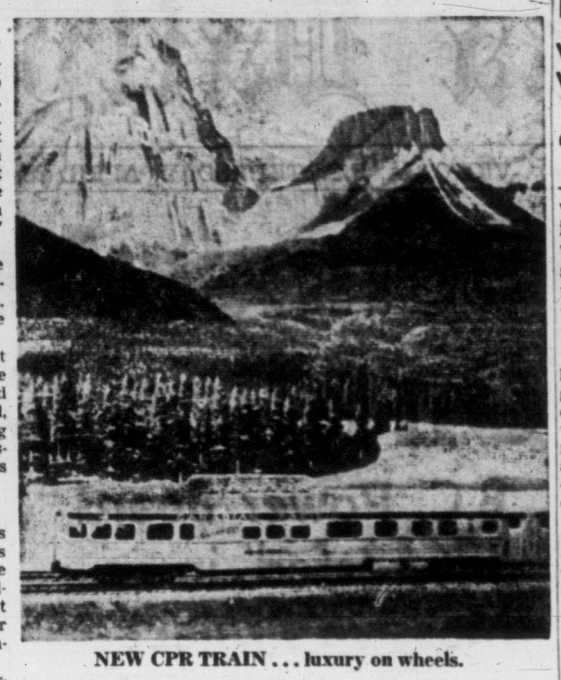
The 4,700-horsepower diesels can whip over the prairies at 90 miles per hour, but run usually at 50. Sixteen hours chopped from the Montreal to Vancouver trip, (it now takes 71 hours) result mostly from skipped and reduced stops.

This reduces number of meals necessary on trip, which is a saving of no small stature if one eats in the diner. Coffee bar prices are reasonable, but diners are still priced beyond reason.

In the diner a chicken sandwich costs $1.40, a pot of tea or coffee, 30 cents. Two boiled eggs go for 75 cents. If you're hungry, a sirloin steak sizzles at $3—with potatoes, vegetables, soup, juice, beverage and dessert to be added. A bowl of soup is 50 cents, a dish of celery 40.

MARINE SPEED

A ship traveling at 10 knots an hour covers 10 nautical miles or 11.5 statute miles.



NEW CPR TRAIN . . . luxury on wheels.

If you can pay for them, the meals are excellent, with generous portions and prompt service.

If there is another criticism, it is directed at the narrow corridors which everyone must pass through en route to the diner, cocktail or food bar. But that is the price paid for the new privacy of the sleepers, precious added inches for the roomettes and bedrooms.

The world's longest, and Canada's only dome route, the Canadian represents a $40,000,000 purchase of 173 cars—all now in service.

Survival Town Atomic Test Miscues Again

Weather May Force Week's Postponement

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (CP)—The big atomic test in which Canadians are participating for the first time was postponed for the third straight time today just 15 minutes before it was due to be set off at dawn in Survival Town.

The latest postponement of hard-luck Operation Cue—now getting the name Operation Miscue among the 5,000 persons involved on the Nevada desert 80 miles from here—may result in a major delay in the tower shot originally scheduled for Tuesday.

Weather officials said today's postponement was caused by adverse upper-air wind conditions. The winds, governing the direction of the deadly radiation fall-out associated with a nuclear explosion, were such that a heavy fall-out was threatened on inhabited areas near the 415,000-acre proving grounds.

OUTLOOK IS POOR

In addition, weather officials said a front moving towards the test site from the Pacific will probably force postponement again Friday. If a fourth postponement is necessary, it is expected that the United States Atomic Energy Commission will halt test activity for about five or six days to make a complete check of delicate electronic equipment.

THREAT TO B.C. RIGHTS

Ottawa Hears Bonner Rap Rivers Act

OTTAWA (CP)—British Columbia says Ottawa's opposition to a power deal the province wants to make threatens to violate B.C.'s rights, prevent it from developing its own resources and endanger Canada-United States relations.

The multi-barrelled charge was levelled by Attorney-General Robert Bonner before the Commons' external affairs committee, considering a government bill for greater federal control over use of the country's international waters.

The legislation, approved in principle by the Commons, would require any group, even provincial governments, to obtain a federal license before building dams on such rivers.

It results from an agreement—opposed by the federal government—between B.C. and the Kaiser Corp. of the U.S. for a dam on the lower Arrow Lakes, a widening of the Columbia River, which would send water down to a power site at Bonneville, Wash., to generate electricity for the corporation.

FREE POWER

The province's interim agreement with Kaiser provides for cost-free import back into B.C. of not less than 20 per cent of the resulting power.

The attorney-general said the legislation will destroy the future of the B.C. Power Commission.

Mr. Bonner also revealed that the B.C. government now feels the Kaiser Dam is doomed.

Mr. Bonner said a U.S. federal government committee would have to give permission for the export of B.C.'s share of the power.

"My own opinion is that this committee (called the Field-level Interagency Committee) will recommend against the exporting of power to B.C.," Mr. Bonner said.

His statements are the first indication from the provincial government that the controversial dam is a dead issue.

Mr. Bonner said the U.S. federal committee, if it rejected the export bid, would do so because B.C. placed too high a cost on Arrow Lakes storage.

He said the Rivers Act would prevent the entry by the B.C. Power Commission into an area comprising 22 per cent of the province, and containing nearly half the total hydro-electric potential of the province.

"If the federal government had sought openly to destroy the future of the B.C. Power Commission, and to deliver the development of our major waterways exclusively into the hands of private power corporations, however excellent they may be from other points of view, the federal government could not have been more effective in that purpose than they now appear to be from the support which they have given to this purpose bill," he said.

Mr. Bonner also claimed the bill would prejudice negotiation with the Frobisher interests, oust basic provincial legislation, and demanded its withdrawal before irreparable harm to B.C.'s economy.

Mr. Bonner argued Ottawa's proposals constitute an encroachment of provincial rights and are based on "an invidious provision of our constitution." He was referring to a section of the British North America Act under which the federal government can assume exclusive jurisdiction over "works and undertakings" which Parliament declares "for the general advantage of Canada," or of two or more provinces.

The invidiousness of the provision was "evident from the limited use made of this portion of the BNA Act by previous governments."

The federal bill would "have the effect of transferring all regulatory powers over a major part of the water resources of the province to the Parliament of Canada."

WOULD NEED APPROVAL

It would permit the federal government to develop significant portions of the province's water resources without consent of B.C. Worse yet, it also would prevent B.C. from developing these water resources if the federal government did not see fit to do so.

It would seriously affect private power in the province, but even more gravely public power.

"When public monies are raised for the development of hydro-electricity by the province of British Columbia through the British Columbia Power Commission," Mr. Bonner said, "It follows that a necessary condition of the investment of that money is that complete control be retained over the installation in which those monies are invested . . .

"The fact that we are delaying the development of hydro installation in the United States while we in Canada pursue a leisurely examination of our own resources can only cause our American friends understandable exasperation," Mr. Bonner said.

Asking withdrawal of the bill "before irreparable harm is done to the people and economy of B.C.," he added:

". . . This bill is undesirable and for the purpose of preserving the national interest, in which we are all concerned, totally unnecessary."

Thomas Primes For Second Strait Assault

Feeding System Test To Be Made

Bert Thomas set out at 9 this morning on the first of several intensive training swims in the Strait of Juan de Fuca before making his second assault on the 18-mile reach of rough water to Port Angeles May 12.

He said he would swim from Clover Point toward Race Rocks for about six hours today, or until he "got tired."

With him were his navigator Captain Hugh Evans, Mrs. Evans, Mrs. Thomas and assistant Ove Witt, who with Marion Thomas was to test an improved system of tube feeding for the swimmer.

COLD LIQUIDS

He said all liquids taken from now on, during training and in the next swim, would be cold rather than warm, as was planned on the April 14 attempt.

Thomas will take dextrose, lemon, orange and tomato juices and finish off with hot chocolate when he comes out of the water.

Improper feeding was blamed for failure of the last swim try from Clover Point.

Sunday afternoon the swim team anticipates a lengthy exhibition grind from Harling Point to some spot on the Victoria waterfront where citizens may see Thomas perform.

Later, it is planned to try a swim from Race Rocks to Ediz Hook, outside Port Angeles harbor, which is a distance of about 10 miles.

RAIL STRIKE

Monckton, Unions Negotiate

LONDON (Reuters) — Government-sponsored peace talks began Wednesday night aimed at averting a strike on Britain's nationalized railroads Sunday.

Leaders of 70,000 railroad engineers and firemen accepted Labor Minister Sir Walter Monckton's invitation Wednesday afternoon to negotiate their wage grievances at his office with officials of the British transport commission. The commission operates the rail system.

The first session adjourned after two and a half hours. The talks will be resumed today.

Monckton called the round-table conference after a full cabinet discussion Wednesday morning of the serious consequences of a national stoppage. At the same time, the cabinet prepared an emergency plan for the movement of food, milk, coal and other vital commodities in case the peace talks collapse.

Timber in the Parks

APPEARING before Chief Justice Sloan's forestry commission, Mr. Walter Owen, counsel for many large timber firms, is quoted as saying that too much forest land is locked up in British Columbia's parks.

The industries represented by Mr. Owen apparently are eager to get at this reserved timber and log off the park lands. If that is not their view, if Mr. Owen's statement has been misunderstood, an explanation should be made without delay. Assuredly most British Columbians will be shocked by this suggested threat to their park lands. And it is to be hoped that Chief Justice Sloan will give such a project the short shrift it deserves.

Not long ago British Columbia was something like an unlimited park where the people could move, camp and enjoy themselves as they pleased in the virgin forest. That day is rapidly closing in.

Not only have most of the forests been cut in the accessible regions around our cities and towns but of necessity the remaining stands are being placed under increasing regulation to protect their future growth. Those regulations, we may be sure, will increase as old forests fall and the young trees are exposed to the danger of fire.

Not long hence it will be only in our few parks that any British Columbia child can see what his country looked like in his father's time and enjoy the freedom of the unspoiled outdoors without restriction. Hence our parks—and there are far too few of them—become more valuable all the time. If parks must be measured in purely economic terms they are becoming increasingly more valuable as productive tourist and recreation assets, in the long run returning us more money than their timber could earn as saw logs.

In recent years we have seen what can happen to parks if the government does not protect them.

The timber margin of the lakes in Tweedsmuir Park, our largest and most valuable preserve, is now being drowned to provide water for the turbines of Kitimat. Few will argue that the Tweedsmuir lakes should not have been raised to serve this great aluminum industry but many will regret that the marginal timber was not logged off in advance—as former forest minister Mr. E. T. Kenney said it would be—to avoid the scars which will soon appear.

Strathcona Park, our only substantial Island preserve, has also been endangered by power developments and is not entirely safe yet. A power scheme is under consideration in Wells Gray Park, on the Clearwater River north of Kamloops. We may take it for granted, in fact, that wherever water runs down hill fast enough it will soon be harnessed for man's use.

If this is desirable it does not follow that we should gut the parks of timber to make a quick gain and a long-term loss. Our mistake has been to preserve too few parks and to cut the timber beside every main highway, until on an Island which was once a single forest we have today only a few pitiably small reminders of the past like Cathedral Grove.

Lumbering is our greatest industry. Most of us live on the forest whether we know it or not. No government in its senses will do anything to damage that industry. The industry, if it is wise, will do nothing to damage our parks.

Constructive Point Ellice Plan

THE CITY'S PUBLIC WORKS committee has presented a sensible and constructive proposal for a new Point Ellice Bridge.

The committee suggests to the council that it ask Victoria property-owners next December if they will shoulder an extra 2 mills taxation to supplement funds already on hand for the job. Supplied with the amount such an extra tax would produce, the committee believes the work could be financed.

If additional money can be secured from senior governments for the project, no one in Victoria will complain. But the committee, at least, sees the desirability of going ahead without waiting for someone to play Santa Claus.

The best that can be said of the present span is that it is a cripple; the worst, that it could be a public menace.

Many arguments have been advanced to justify pleas to other authorities for help on the proposed new bridge. Whatever their potency, the fact remains that Point Ellice Bridge is first and foremost a Victoria responsibility. Others will benefit from a better crossing of the arm. But if they are not convinced of their obligations to help finance one, Victoria's progress demands the improvement.

Approval of the public works committee's request would demonstrate a heartening return of civic vitality to Victoria—particularly if the job could be done without substantially increasing the load of debt now carried by taxpayers.

Whom the Gods Destroy . . ?

PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVES embroiled in the current controversy between the British Columbia provincial organization and the federal association are, no doubt, too close to the conflict to see it in its wider perspective. The warring factions are arguing heatedly about matters of internal policy and administration, each hoping to annihilate the opposition and emerge triumphant. But the outsider, unmoved by the details of the quarrel, observes only that the party is being wrecked.

The French writer Henri Barbusse, illustrating the oneness of mankind, once declared that a battle was not two armies murdering each other: it was one great army committing suicide. The Progressive Conservative Party, in British Columbia at any rate, appears to be in that position today.

Whether these are the death throes of a party already doomed it is perhaps too early to say. With a constructive program and a measure of internal harmony, the Progressive Conservative Party could have much still to offer the public life of the province and the nation. But no more fatal time could have been picked for internecine warfare.

The Tories today face the most lethal threat in their history: the rise of another party which, despite its name and its weird mixture of piety and phony financial theories, is hoping to take over the rightist role of the Conservatives.

Arrival of the enemy at the gates should not be the signal for a squabble over the leadership of the defenders. It may not yet be too late for the party of Macdonald, Meighen and other famous Canadian figures to reassert itself. But time, and the party's opponents, will not wait forever.

Ready With a Bigger Fair

DURING RECENT YEARS THE Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce has demonstrated to this community the values and the attractions of an exhibition.

Over a period of time the event the organization sponsors annually has grown from a home products fair to something of more substantial proportions. When its 1955 edition is presented to the public on Monday, the exhibition will have reached a record for entries and will cover a much wider field than any similar event in Victoria in postwar years.

The young men who are in charge of the exhibition and the merchants who have entered displays are to be congratulated on the manner in which they have increased the size and scope of the exhibition since its beginnings.

The sponsors hope to match the growth of the fair itself by the attendance figures for the week. Their target is 100,000, a total 30,000 above last year's record.

On the basis of excellent shows in the past, the number, close as it is to the urban population of Greater Victoria, seems not too large an objective for the energetic young men and enterprising exhibitors who have won such justified support in other years.

One Way Ride

SIR HAROLD SPENCER JONES, director of the Greenwich Observatory, is a man of great distinction in his field. He can scarcely expect to win a popularity contest, however, among the small fry who have already acquired their space-helmets and ray-guns ready for a quick take-off to Mars and points beyond.

Interplanetary travel will not be feasible, says Sir Harold, "in this century, nor in the next one, nor in the one after that."

Even a short hop to the moon would require at least a six-ton rocket and, he adds, "it wouldn't have fuel enough to get back."

The Russians are not quite so pessimistic. They are considering dispatch of a radio-controlled tank to the earth's satellite. "After such a flight," says Radio Moscow, "it would be possible to consider sending a space ship with men on board."

Perhaps getting back isn't important to a regime which has made a political specialty of the one-way ride.

LOOSE ENDS — By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The Lonely Man

THE mind of President Eisenhower is easily the most important psychological study in the Western world. Though I have argued here that the great decisions will not be made by the President, or any small group of men but only by the people, it is still true that the President possesses a unique power at the moment, simply because, more than any man, he possesses the confidence of the people. It is doubtful, indeed, if any President before him had this peculiar kind of confidence, which cuts clear across party lines and makes the Democrats afraid even to attack him.

Hutchison

WHAT goes on in this man's mind, therefore, is of immediate concern to everyone who is concerned with the world's peace and therefore with the chance of living out a normal non-radioactive life. Most of his mind, of course, will be hidden from the public but one aspect of it, the most interesting, has been pretty well exposed lately. I mean what he thinks about a hydrogen war.

A sort of psychological chart, highly revealing and not a little alarming, has been drawn from the available documents by Mr. Joseph Harsch, the eminent Washington correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor.

MR. HARSCH finds that on October 19, 1954, Mr. Eisenhower, the old soldier, apparently had abandoned the thoughts of war as a practical policy. In this age of atomic weapons, he said, "there is no longer any alternative to peace." As a soldier he had grasped the meaning of the first hydrogen explosion. As a human being he could not tolerate the thought of wrecking civilization with an instrument different not only in size but in kind from any known before.

That was in October. In December the Council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization authorized its military commanders to base their planning on the assumption that atomic weapons would be used in the defence of Europe. The possibility of an alternative to peace had begun to emerge.

In December also the American military budget was suddenly revised. The Army was cut back, against the public protests of its commander, and the power of the United States concentrated decisively in air power and atomic weapons.

ON January 12, the President reassured an anxious people by saying he did not think that atomic weapons would "normally" be used in "lesser hostile actions not broadened by the intervention of a major aggressor's forces." In other words, the Bomb was not likely to be used except in the ultimate hyperbolic war.

On March 8, however, Mr. Dulles—who must have spoken with the President's approval—returned from Asia urging American resistance to any further Chinese expansion and he spoke confidently of "weapons of precision which can utterly destroy military targets without endangering unrelated civilian centres." These weapons are small tactical atomic bombs.

FINALLY, on March 16, the President revealed what seems to be a deep change in his thinking since October. He said: "Now, in any combat where these things (atomic weapons) can be used on strictly military targets I see no reason why they shouldn't be used just exactly as you would a bullet or anything else." Mr. Eisenhower's mind apparently has rounded a full circle.

As Mr. Harsch puts it: "During the past six months the President's position has moved from abhorrence of the whole range of atomic weapons through an intermediate stage where tactical devices would not normally be used to the final stage where he likens the tactical variety to a bullet."

Consequently, says Mr. Harsch, the Pentagon assumes that if it is ordered to defend Quemoy and the Matsus it will use "at least the new tactical nuclear weapons."

THAT is hard-headed military thinking but the problem of Asia, or any great problem for that matter, cannot be settled in only military terms. The political or, if you will, the philosophical terms in the end are always decisive.

In political or philosophical terms there can be no doubt that the use of atomic weapons against Asiatics will prove disastrous to the West's whole position in Asia. With the Asiatics, after the experience of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, the atomic bomb is more than a weapon—it is a symbol of everything that Asia hates in the white man. The Western nation which uses the bomb against Asiatics, even if they are Chinese communists, need expect to have no friends in Asia thenceforth.

IF there is any doubt about that, there is no doubt about the explosive power of the bomb in the West itself. Not one of the United States' Western allies will fight for the inshore Chinese islands because they are obviously the legal property of China. Not one of them would approve the use of atomic weapons to defend those islands. All of them would recoil from American leadership if those weapons were used.

Mr. Harsch warns his countrymen, indeed, that "there is no secret of the fact that such a war, fought over the issue of the Matsu and Quemoy Islands, could well mean the end of the NATO alliance and the political isolation of the United States . . . Asian opinion does not seem to draw the fine distinction that Washington's soldiers do between the old atomic bomb with their fall-out and the new precision weapons which supposedly do not endanger unrelated civilian centres . . . The first United States atomic weapons dropped on Chinese communist troops could achieve what ten years of Soviet propaganda have failed to achieve—the splitting of the Western alliance."

THE process might not stop with that first split. An atomic war of "precision" bombs aimed at military targets only, could bring Russia in with other kinds of bombs and finally the big bomb itself, of which a score or two could exterminate most or all life on the planet by radioactive poison. That is the possible alternative to peace Mr. Eisenhower recognized last October 19. What is the most powerful and loneliest man on earth thinking now?

A BUCK FOR BERT

Remember a few Sundays ago when a big chap from Tacoma gave thousands of swim fans a great display of courage and determination?

Now down deep in your heart, do you really think it was worth a half dollar?

Well, again on a Thursday night, still over 10,000 of big Bert's followers saw him plunge in to achieve his goal.

Again, wasn't it worth another half dollar?

I have not seen any of his two great performances but I sure am giving a dollar to see and help him conquer the "Everest of Swims," the Strait of Jaun de Fuca. So Victorians, if you think you can help Bert, match my dollar and send it to The Bert Thomas Swim Fund, Cherry Bank Hotel.

START WITH THE SPIDER

Allow me to suggest to the physical scientist that in his pursuit of the source of intelligence, he begin first by finding whence comes the knowledge of stresses and strains, used by the spider when spinning its web, before holding a post mortem on Einstein's brain in an effort to separate the universal source of all experience and knowledge. One is astounded at the persistent ignorance of "so called" intellectuals.

IN MEMORIAM—
DR. ALBERT EINSTEIN

He was a Jew, a gently loyal Jew,
Who, with the law of Moses he adored,
Well knew and loved, the way of Jesus Christ;
These were his axioms of reality.

In science, he took Newton as his guide;
To base advancement in man's theories:
From calculus, through relativity,
His physics teach, all has equivalence.

At times, for him, the way was turbulent.
Not yet resolved, great problems still remain
Unsolved in science, as in other fields:
But what is real is only in man's Christ.

A tear drops in our heart, when such men pass
From here—this stage—where all enact a part,
Lay down our tools, and into God return,
Ambition humbled, future life serene.

Duel at Two Paces

Let's Keep it Verbal

By WALTER LIPPMANN from Washington

ON SUNDAY at Bandung Premier Chou En-lai proposed that "China and the United States should sit down and enter into negotiations to settle the question of relaxing and eliminating the tension in the Taiwan (Formosa) area. However, this should not in the slightest degree affect the just demand of the Chinese people to exercise their sovereign rights in liberating Taiwan." This statement may be read in the light of what Secretary Dulles said in his press conference on March 15: "If there were a renunciation of the use of force, that would meet the immediate requirments of the situation, and there would be no necessity that I can see for anybody, either on the Republic of China's side, or the Communist side, to renounce what they might call their legal pretentions, their legal claims."

Lippmann

These two statements of positions are so close together that there may be no difference between them.

Five weeks elapsed between the Dulles statement and Chou's statement. It is reasonable to suppose that in that interval there was very considerable diplomatic activity in which, presumably, London and Moscow, New Delhi and Katachi, had a hand.

FORCES AND CLAIMS

The renunciation of force without renouncing claims was first proposed publicly by Sir Anthony Eden on March 8 in a statement to the House of Commons. As a matter of fact, Secretary Dulles' statement was in reply to a question as to whether he agreed with Sir Anthony Eden. Presumably, Secretary Dulles made his statement in order to give Great Britain and the other governments, which have been playing a role of intermediary, a proposal to work with in Peiping.

And presumably also, the mediators had achieved their first success in Peiping some time before the Bandung conference met. For the Chinese Ambassador in Washington, Dr. Koo, spoke out the night before the Bandung conference met and made an elaborate rejection of any kind of modus vivendi.

The government in Formosa must have known what was in the wind. And if we guess a little more, we may guess that Chou's acceptance of the formula, rather than the build-up of Red Chinese air power on the coast, was what took Secretary Dulles down to see the President in Augusta just as Admiral Radford was cancelling his trip to Europe in order to rush off to Formosa. . . . Or is it sheer coincidence that these pieces in the jigsaw puzzle fit together?

As a matter of fact, the main novelty of Chou's statement at Bandung was that he made it publicly. For in spite of the Communist propaganda, diplomatic contact with Chou has not been broken since the Hammarskjold mission. And always in these exploratory discussions there had been only one conceivable line of immediate progress — to seek an arrangement, probably tacit rather than explicit, by which the two Chinese governments, while renouncing nothing, would not prosecute their claims by waging war.

FAVORABLE DEVELOPMENT

The choice of the Bandung conference as the place to make public Chou's acceptance of the formula is a most favorable development. For it means that under Eden's leadership there has been found a formula which is acceptable to Peiping and to Washington, and has the approval of the uncommitted nations of Asia and of Africa.

The Bandung conference was, of course, overwhelmingly opposed to a war by Chiang, backed by the United States, to overthrow the Red regime But it was no less opposed to Red China's "liberation" of Formosa by force. What it wanted was what first Eden, then Dulles, and finally Chou were able to propose: An arrangement which would avoid a war that might engulf the greater part of Asia.

If the State Department knows what it is doing, and if the makers of our policy can manage to collect themselves in one place long enough to act with deliberation, Chou's acceptance of the Eden formula in the presence of the Bandung conference is, at a minimum, a public commitment not to use force in the Formosa Straits until the diplomatic exchanges which have already begun have been carried further.

Chou took five weeks to make his reply to the Dulles statement of March 15. There is no reason why with the President in Gettysburg and the Secretary of State on an island in upper New York, the State Department needed to form an opinion and to express it publicly a few hours after Chou's statement was received. What do these people think they are doing? Trying to make a deadline for the next edition of the newspapers, or conducting the foreign policy of the United States?

UNWISE CONCLUSION

Nor is it necessary, or desirable and wise to jump to the conclusion that the next steps should be concessions by Peiping in order that we may then agree to participate in a formal conference. The last thing we ought to want now is a formal conference.

What we should want is to say just enough to encourage the mediators to continue the exchanges of views—and in the meantime without the beating of all the drums to bring about a dampening down of the sporadic hostilities which are now taking place in the Formosa area.

There is no hope in a formal conference. For at a formal conference there would arise, like a swarm of angry hornets, issues that are really serious only if the negotiations have to be done in public. Who, for example, shall attend the conference? Chiang says he will not attend it, and we have said that we will not attend without him. Are there two Chinas or only one China? What is the juridical status of Formosa?

In a public meeting these are insoluble issues, capable only of touching off explosions of bellicose rhetoric. They are insoluble issues and yet that is no reason for having a war in order to pretend to solve them. The best way to deal with these issues is to live with them and in the course of time to outlive them.

That is what a modus vivendi, without a settlement, would permit us all to do.

SHOULD BE

We must all earn our living and proper training for that is a necessity; but it is also a desperate necessity, and not a luxury, that the satisfaction of the cultural and recreative needs of the local community should be a major aim in town and country everywhere.

—Henry Morris, recently retired Chief Educational Officer for Cambridgeshire.

BOTH SIDES

One night last autumn I was visiting an isolated Welsh farmhouse; to reach it I had to walk across fields for a couple of miles. Mary, my five-year-old, who really lives in a world of her own and only descends to ours at mealtimes, pay day and other satisfying or lucrative times, knew of my projected journey. Before I left she whispered to me confidentially, "Daddy, when you go to Penbank tonight, please try and see some fairies and tell me about them tomorrow." Then, as I was going out of the room, she turned and murmured in a sleepy voice, "Tell them about me, too."

NOT CUT OFF

Thank goodness that being a spinster hasn't cut me off from masculine society. I don't know what's the opposite of Dr. Johnson's tribute to "endearing elegance of female friendship"—perhaps "the enduring stimulus of male society." Anyway I like it, I particularly like working with men, and I've had a succession of overlords who've made me laugh and flattered me with their grateful dependence. And I've been blessed with some female friends who've obligingly married charming men who give me a smacking kiss and their best dry sherry when I go to dine.

A WOMAN'S OUTLOOK

By RUTH ENKE

The Natives' Return

THEY'RE Canadian born and bred and, right now, they're half-way through their precious two months in Europe. I wonder so much how they will feel when they get back.

They went by air but are returning by boat and train with a few days' stopover in Scarsdale, a wealthy district on the outskirts of New York.

I wonder whether, as they steam into New York, they'll be scornful of the boisterous Americans who are pointing out the buildings and the skyline, and bragging about the biggest, the highest, the most costly building in the world, with the greatest number of windows, and put up faster than any building of its size before.

Ruth

* * *

Will they make the foolish and ignorant mistake of imagining that all Americans are like these? Or will they notice the quiet, dignified woman who is far more cultured than most of the Canadians who dare to criticize America? Will they understand the reverent love with which that elderly couple regards the Statue of Liberty? Will they grasp the dream and inspiration America has been to millions?

Will they be startled by the size and newness of the cars?

Will the houses in Scarsdale seem very light in color with their pale walls and bright, gay roofs? Will they seem strange after the sombre hues of English brick and slate and stone?

I think that from the train, as they go up the Hudson, they'll be shocked by the slumminess of old frame houses and how much worse dilapadiated wood is than weathered or smoke-grimed brick.

I think they'll be pleased by the friendliness of people on the trains, and how easily North Americans speak to strangers.

I wonder whether they will notice that in North America the grandest buildings are those put up for the glorification of Commerce and the worship of the great god, Mammon.

I think they'll be saddened by the materialism of general conversation and by the constant allusions to the almighty dollar and what's good for business.

They'll contrast the slow bucketing of the Canadian trains with the dizzy rocketing of Englisn ones.

They'll feel their land stretching out through the days and nights and be awed by its size and lonesomeness. And, with each mile that they come westwards, they'll feel that they are leaving civilization far behind.

* * *

But, because they've been born and bred out here, they'll be thrilled to see the gulls and wooded hills once more, and hear the familiar blow of the steamers. The driftwood on the beaches, the tall poles on the fishboats, an eagle soaring in the blue, all these will fill them with a delight that's close to tears.

After little England, they'll miss the theatres, concerts and art galleries available in London and the larger cities. They'll find our papers parochial. They'll be discouraged by the fact that the bulk of the population still doesn't realize that the arts, letters and sciences form a large part of a nation's spirit.

They'll feel that they are among a bunch of semi-educated barbarians. Or, maybe, a bunch of adolescents. (Is there any difference?)

They'll be most unhappy for the first six months, missing the tradition, the sense of background, the atmosphere of permanence, the respect for age, the mature values and the solidity of it all.

* * *

But then, bit by bit, they'll realize that the faults and virtues of this country are those of youth And all young things grow up in time.

They'll sense that from coast to coast gifted people are striving to instil a little of the wisdom, patience and tolerance of age into the crude eager boisterous spirit of this country we call Canada.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Mowing the Green Lawns

LONDON—Yesterday a Canadian soldier got into the bus and sat down beside me. In the course of conversation he mentioned that he was going back to Canada next week.

Reyburn

"Too bad," I said. "You are leaving at the best time of year. The English summer's wonderful."

He looked at me blankly. 'Are you kidding? I can't wait to get back to a Canadian summer. They don't have real summers here. Just rain and cold and where's the sunshine?"

Unfortunately at that moment the bus reached the place I was going and I had to get out without having a friendly argument with the soldier as to the pros and cons of the English summer compared to what we are used to in Canada.

* * *

It is a popular pastime of those of us who come to this country from Canada to condemn the English summer out of hand, merely on superficial evidence of a lack of a long succession of hot sunny days. But with all its often enumerated faults the British summer has many points on which it scores heavily over ours.

For one thing, things happen here in summer. The weeks are crammed with big sports events to follow—Wimbledon, the cricket Test Matches, the Derby, Ascot, Henley Regatta, Cowes Week, etc.—and displays, exhibitions and festivals such as the Chelsea Flower Show, Glyndebourne Opera, Edinburgh Festival, Farnborough Air Display, Royal Academy summer show, Welsh National Eisteddfod, and so on. Not only is there far more to see and do in the way of big public events, but the summer in England doesn't throw business in general into the doldrums as the heat of Canada does.

There is no counterpart here of the annoyance in Canada of trying to get some business transacted and finding either that everybody is too lethargic to take much interest or else the key people concerned have fled the sweltering heat of the city. As many new plays open here in the summer as in winter, a procedure that would be fatal in North America's "dead" summer period.

The English summer twilight is something we don't enjoy, such mellow evenings here when you can play tennis as late as 11 o'clock at night and then go to bed knowing that you are not going to be kept from sleep by either the stifling heat or the frightening thunderstorms that are the prices Canadians pay for those sunny days.

* * *

Not only are the days much longer but the summer itself is longer. Take the situation right now, for instance. Here we are in mid-April and as I write young Mac is in the garden in his shirtsleeves waiting for me to finish and go out and have a game of cricket with him. It is mild and sunny. The trees are sprouting green all over the place.

The gardener over the road is mowing the rich green lawns around the house and the people who live there will no doubt be having tea out on those lawns this afternoon as they have each day this week.

I think there we have the main point. England doesn't have the intense heat and sunshine of the short Canadian summer at its height. Instead the English have a stretch from April to the end of September of diluted summer weather which I for one find a very pleasant six months indeed.

TRIGGERMAN CASTS VOTE

Italians Elect President On Duce Death Anniversary

ROME (UP) — The Italian parliament met today on the 10th anniversary of the assassination of Benito Mussolini to elect a new president of democratic Italy.

The timing of today's joint session of the senate and chamber of deputies was a coincidence, but the era ended on April 28, 1945, by a burst of machinegun bullets, was recalled throughout Italy.

The man who pulled the trigger on Il Duce and his mistress was among the deputies eligible to vote, Communist deputy Walter Audisio, then a leader of the partisans in north Italy.

The balloting today was to name a successor to 81-year-old President Luigi Einaudi whose seven-year term has expired. In addition to the two chambers of parliament, representatives from four Italian regions were present.

QUEEN ELIZABETH

NEWLY-FITTED

"Elizabeth" May Seek Blue Riband

SOUTHAMPTON (Reuters)—The 83,000-ton liner Queen Elizabeth, newly overhauled and fitted with special stabilizers, may try to recapture the Atlantic blue riband from the United States this summer.

The Cunard liner, biggest in the world, steamed into Southampton Tuesday after setting up a British post-war speed record for the crossing, despite bad weather.

She travelled the 3,199 miles from the Ambrose channel lightship off New York to the Cherbourg breakwater in four days, 11 hours and 42 minutes at an average speed of 29.70 knots.

This was still more than 24 hours behind the American record of three days, 10 hours and 40 minutes for the same journey set up three years ago by the liner United States.

But the Elizabeth had been hampered by two days of rough seas and a moderate swell all the way whereas the United States had enjoyed good July conditions.

Garden Tour Draws 200 On First Day

More than 200 Victorians and visitors, many from the United States, Wednesday toured gardens at Royal Roads Canadian Service College and five home gardens in the first day of the four-day Spring Garden Festival sponsored by the Victoria Horticultural Society.

Today a party of 100 gardeners from Tacoma, members of clubs there, will tour the 12 gardens on display.

About 40 gardens are on the route being traveled by special buses from C & C, Government Street, and private cars during the showings. Buses leave at 9.30 a.m. and 1.30 p.m.

Here for the event are well-known gardening authorities Carl Stocker, Portland specialist in flower arrangements, and Cecil Solly, radio commentator on horticulture.

May meeting of the Victoria Horticultural Society will be held Tuesday, May 3, at 7.30 p.m. in the City Hall.

Raymond Massey Plans New Play on Lincoln

NEW YORK (CP) — The Times says Raymond Massey has purchased the rights and is working on the stage adaptation of J. T. Bishop's new book "The Day Lincoln Was Shot." The Times adds that the Canadian-born actor, who gave a memorable portrayal of Lincoln in the play "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," will not appear in the stage version of Bishop's book.

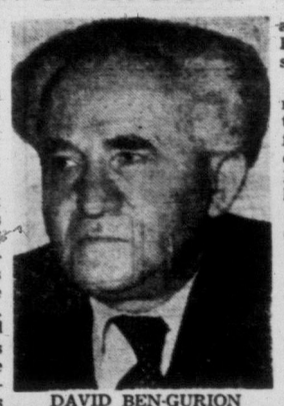
'Life or Death War' Promised To Preserve Israel's Borders

TEL AVIV, Israel (Reuters)—David Ben-Gurion, who seven years ago became Israel's first premier, said Wednesday his country will brook no interference in its affairs and, to preserve its borders, would fight "a life or death war."

The defense minister spoke at Independence Day celebrations here featured by a display of Israeli military might. He emphasized that Israel must, "as long as our neighbors scheme to annihilate us," rely on force.

During the day, an estimated 250,000 cheering Israelis watched a five-mile long parade which for the first time unveiled French-built light tanks and 155-millimeter howitzers. British-built Meteor jets screamed overhead.



DAVID BEN-GURION

Ben-Gurion, who recently renounced his life as a farmer in the Negev desert to become defense minister, bitterly lashed out at the United Nations, at Britain and at Egypt during his speech.

The defense minister strongly repudiated demands made by Egyptian National Guidance Minister Major Salah Salem for the return to Egypt of the Negev area.

"If Salah Salem and his friends covet Negev, let them come and take it—the Israeli Army would greet them with a warm reception," he said.

NEWFOUNDLAND TO VOTE SOON?

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (BUP)—The Newfoundland legislature was prorogued Wednesday amid a flurry of speculation that a provincial general election would be called soon.

Joseph Smallwood has been premier since Newfoundland, a former British crown colony, joined Canada on March 31, 1949.

HEALTH INSURANCE HIGHLIGHTS PREMIERS' PARLEY

Oct. 3 Agenda Historic in Scope

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Reporter

OTTAWA — Action to speed the implementation of a program involving federal participation in the costs of unemployment relief was agreed upon during the final meeting of the federal-provincial preliminary conference here Wednesday.

Provincial ministers concerned will reconvene in Ottawa next June to try to reach agreement upon the terms of the unemployment assistance program.

The conference in closed sessions Wednesday reached agreement on the items to be included in the agenda of the full-scale federal-provincial conference at Ottawa on Oct. 3.

National health insurance surprisingly occupied a large share of the "in camera" discussions. Unemployment, as was expected, was also a major item under discussion.

MANITOBA OUTSPOKEN

Premier Campbell of Manitoba was the most outspoken opponent of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent's plan for federal participation in some of the costs of unemployment relief up to a maximum of 50 per cent in critical times. Premier Campbell spoke out strongly in favor of the federal government assuming 100 per cent responsibility for the unemployment relief costs. Other premiers were not so vigorous in their demand for the federal government to assume full responsibility although they were not enthusiastic about the federal proposal, it was learned.

Other developments:

(1)—It was agreed that federal sharing in the costs of relief for the unemployed should not wait for the October conference. It will be referred immediately to a committee of federal-provincial officials who will collate the facts, examine technical problems and report to a meeting of federal-provincial ministers in June, or July at the latest.

(2)—The conference appointed a committee, or secretariat, consisting of officials from each province to meet under the chairmanship of Dr. K. W. Taylor, deputy minister of finance. It will prepare statistics and technical papers for the full-scale October conference.

(3)—Premier Douglas led the fight for the introduction of a health insurance program in Canada, assisted by Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario and Premier W. A. C. Bennett. They spoke out strongly in support of such a scheme. The premiers of Alberta and Newfoundland also favored health insurance.

(4)—Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec, voiced outright opposition to a national health insurance scheme at this time. Manitoba, too, sought assurances from the federal government that there would be no sudden action to implement such a scheme without long prior discussion, as it would involve a drain on the provincial treasury.

(5)—Prime Minister St. Laurent is understood to have indicated that at this time his government was not prepared to embark on a national health insurance program of the scale contemplated. It was agreed, however, to include "health and welfare services" as an agenda item for the full-scale fall conference, under which health insurance will be discussed in detail.

6. Ontario will probably sign a new tax rental agreement, sources who heard Premier Frost speak at the closed sessions said. The Conservative premier who is facing an early election indicated by his remarks, that at this stage, he had no intention of withdrawing from the tax rental agreements, when they expire in March, 1957.

7. Quebec, through Premier Duplessis, gave no indication of a willingness to abandon its independent stand and enter the tax rental agreements. Other provinces are expected to renew the agreements despite the fact that Mr. St. Laurent said Ottawa would not go beyond the present scale of payments.

MOST IMPORTANT

The range of subjects set down for the fall conference mark it as one of the most important in Canadian history. Mr. St. Laurent told newsmen that the federal government and premiers were prepared to give it adequate time to allow complete and thorough discussions.

It will be convened on Oct. 3, a Monday. The prime minister said the delegates would be pleased if it could be concluded before Thanksgiving Day on Oct. 10. If it was not concluded by then, they would continue the following week.

The agenda drafted at the preliminary two-day conference here will be:

A. Federal-provincial fiscal relations.

B. Public investment and natural resources development.

C. The desirability of establishing a federal-provincial continuing committee.

D. Health and welfare services.

E. The timing and scope of such other special conferences as may be desired.

Thatcher Faces Recall Action By Sask. CCF

MOOSE JAW (CP)—Whether W. Ross Thatcher, member of Parliament for Moose Jaw-Lake Centre, may be recalled by the CCF will be decided at a meeting of the Moose Jaw CCF federal association executive Saturday.

The meeting has been called by Fred Jones, association president.

Jones said he called the meeting so the executive members could decide what course to take.

It had been hoped and expected that Mr. Thatcher in the House of Commons this week would explain his reasons for resigning from the CCF and that the meeting Saturday would discuss the situation in the light of what the Moose Jaw-Lake Centre member says at Ottawa.

Liquor Bill for Canadians Jumped 4.3 Per Cent in 1953

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians spent $869,000,000 for booze in 1953, the bureau of statistics reported today.

This was an increase of $36,000,000 or 4.3 per cent over the 1952 amount of $833,000,000.

In the fiscal year ended March 31, 1954, the federal and provincial governments took in $345,645,000 in taxes on alcoholic beverages, exclusive of the general sales tax.

Of this amount, the federal government collected $184,128,000 and the provinces $161,517,000.

Production of spirits in the 1953-54 fiscal year increased to 24,711,000 proof gallons from 22,517,000 in the previous year.

TO BE HANGED—Mrs. Lina Thibodeau, 26, has been sentenced to be hanged June 29. The mother of five children, she was convicted at Edmundston, N.B., of murdering her husband, Claude, 35, last November. The jury recommended mercy, and the presiding judge, Chief Justice J. E. Michaud of the Queen's Bench division, said he would add a recommendation of his own for mercy. (CP photo.)

1954 REPORT

Heart Disease Kills 376 Here In Single Year

Annual report of the City-Esquimalt medical health officer Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffey shows heart diseases and cancer are still the main killers for all age groups in the area.

The report said heart and circulatory diseases took the lives of 367, cancer, 154.

Car accidents, it showed, were the chief killer in the 20 to 39 age group.

Death rate for Victoria was 12.1 per thousand the doctor said, which is higher than most other parts of the dominion due to a high percentage of elderly retired people here.

MEASLES HIGH

A high incidence of measles here last year followed a five-year pattern. There were 512 cases.

Deaths from communicable disease included seven from diarrhoea and enteritis, 42 from pneumonia, 11 from tuberculosis and one from syphilis.

VON district director Miss Marjorie Baird reported the need for a special unit locally for care of elderly male patients who are mentally disabled.

"There are some facilities for women, but what to do with the old man who has lost his mind is one of the unsolved problems."

'Back Bridge', Socred MLA Urges Okanagan

VERNON (CP)—Cars should be rolling across the new Okanagan Lake bridge by late 1957 or early 1958, Hugh Shantz (SC-Vernon) told board of trade members.

"Ferries there have never paid for themselves.

"In a few years, the new bridge should be toll free," he said.

Mr. Shantz called for support of the project.

"Whether we would like to see a highway on the east side of Okanagan Lake or on the west side, we should now sink our preferences and get behind the Kelowna bridge," he declared.

Clothing Theft Sentence Due Monday

Wililam Mathieson, Colwood, was remanded to Monday for sentence when convicted in city police court Wednesday on a theft charge.

He was charged with stealing a suit and topcoat over $50 value, property of Peter J. Gosich, Cordova Bay. Clothes were valued at $132.

Mr. Gosich testified he left the clothes on a stair bannister in a Johnson Street hotel. He said he talked with friends and when he returned the clothes were missing.

'BILL'

Mathieson said he met a stranger, "Bill," in a Douglas Street beer parlor. The two later went to the Johnson Street hotel where Mathieson entered the beer parlor two or three minutes ahead of the other man, he said.

He said the man later asked him to sell the suit as he was "short of beer money."

Mathieson attempted to sell the suit to a pawnbroker and was subsequently questioned by Detective Percy Richards about the clothing in his car.

Miss Hazel Baker, 1505 Fort, said she saw two men enter the Johnson Street hotel through a Store Street entrance. She said they came out shortly after and one of the men carried a suit and topcoat over an arm.

SUSPENDED — Lt.-Col. L. H. Brown, 38, of Ottawa, has been suspended from duty pending an investigation of his conduct. The army said Lt.-Col. Brown, engineer officer for the army's eastern Ontario area, was suspended "as a result of recent investigations into his conduct years ago."

Welfare Heads Oppose Legal Lotteries

'Most Dangerous Form of Gambling'

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Welfare Council opposes legalized lotteries under either government or private auspices.

Its views were expressed today in a brief read to the Commons-Senate committee on capital and corporal punishment and lotteries by council secretary W. T. McGrath of Ottawa.

With him were Pacifique Plante, assistant director of Montreal police, and a group of council members from Ottawa.

The council said that if games of chance are to be permitted for charitable or non-profit purposes they should be placed under national law. Amounts of money involved should be kept small since this lessened the temptation to criminal elements to take over control.

It also wants the Criminal Code amended to permit police to destroy telegraph and telephone equipment they find in gambling establishments during raids.

Its brief added that gambling teaches the young to look for an easy way to earn a living rather than by hard work.

CONTRIBUTING FACTOR

The most serious objection to gambling was its connection with gangsters and political corruption.

A council questionnaire had indicated that 21 of 26 Canadian police chiefs and seven of 11 "people engaged in treatment services" believe gambling is a contributing factor to crime.

Lotteries, "possibly the most dangerous form of gambling," were an uneconomical way to raise money. Estimates of money raised through Irish Hospital sweepstakes tickets ran from 12 to 18 per cent of total sales.

Many tickets sold were counterfeit. Conducting the lotteries under government auspices would not avoid this danger.

The council added: "There should also be a provision in the law that makes it illegal for any individual or group of individuals running a game of chance on behalf of a charitable organization to profit from the game. All proceeds should go to the charity concerned."

Rare Blood Odyssey Means Life to Baby

Compiled from CP, AP and UP Dispatches

An Edmonton-based RCAF jet plane flew into Redwood City, Calif., Wednesday, carrying two bottles of the world's rarest blood which may save the life of the soon-to-be-born baby of Mrs. Nadine Robertson of the United States city. Without the blood the baby's chances for life would be virtually nil.

The T-33 jet arrived at Alameda naval air station at 4.49, after the swift flight from Edmonton and a forced stop at Calgary caused by icing on the aircraft.

The blood carried on the plane is so rare only 25 persons in the world are known to have it.

It was donated for the Robertson baby by two Cree Indian sisters, Mrs. Clara Hirondelle and Jean Calihoo—living on the Colihoo Indian reserve 130 miles west of Edmonton. Dr. D. I. Buchan, Red Cross official at Edmonton, traveled in a horse-drawn wagon to get the blood from the sisters.

The baby's entire blood supply will have to be drained immediately after birth and replaced simultaneously with the new blood.

FORT AND DOUGLAS

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

Muzz Patrick could be said to have hit the peak expected of him, having been appointed general manager of the New York Rangers as he was last week.

But for those in the city who don't know Muzz, except for his latter-day services in the Western Hockey League, and he is probably a legend to many others, "Why?" would appear to be as good a query as any.

The more recent aspects of Murray's career are fairly well known, such as his rise through hockey's minor leagues, St. Paul, Tacoma, Seattle, thence to be named coach of the Rangers, and now the head man of the Broadway Blues.

Walker

But let's go back, far back, for a glimpse of this school-boy hero starting out on the road to fame.

For it was in his youth that Muzz achieved some of his more notable athletic accomplishments, and few in the Dominion have an athletic career to parallel his as a teen-ager.

And all this before he had reached his 20th birthday!

In basketball it was a rise from a grade school championship team at Sir James Douglas to the Blue Ribbons and a Canadian championship in the 1932-33 season.

He led all scorers in the Dominion finals that season and he was, at the time, the youngest player ever to participate in a Dominion series. The next year, as a member of the Montreal Nationals, he led his league in scoring, and again was the leading scorer in the playoff series that eventually saw the Nationals defeated by the Vancouver Province.

You Name It, He Played It

For two years he was a backfield star with the Victoria entry in the "Big-Four" Canadian Football League here on the coast, and although the youngest player on the club, gained the most yardage during the 1932 season.

English rugby was also a sideline for him; he was a member of the Victoria High School squad which won the B.C. title in 1931 and later played for Fifth Regiment in the City League while still a student at high school.

From 1928-31 he won 20 cups and seven medals in junior cycling competition, more or less culminating his career in this field by capturing the B.C. five-mile board track championship in 1934.

Track and field was no stranger to him either in his youth. In 1932 he won aggregate honors in the Victoria High School championship, captured the B.C. aggregate title in 1933, set records in the 880 yards and mile event at Westmount High School in Quebec in 1934, and that same year won the half-mile and mile events of the Eastern Interscholastic meet in Montreal.

Triple Mitt Champion Too

His one-time ambition of being a heavyweight boxer probably stemmed from the fact that in his one really active year in the ring, 1935, he captured the British Columbia, Washington State and Canadian heavyweight amateur championships.

In addition, Muzz was a better-than-average baseball player as a member of the Tillicums of the Senior League, was picked on a high school all-star hockey team in 1933-34, his first season in the sport in Montreal, graduating the next season to the Brooklyn Crescents, winners that year of the Eastern United States Amateur Hockey League championship.

Yes, all this before he had reached his 20th birthday which came on June 28, 1935.

Maybe then the question shouldn't be "why?" was such a tribute as he received in his appointment to the New York general manager's position expected of him?

Rather, perhaps, it should read: "Why not?"

Because this is the Muzz Patrick that most Victorians know, following in his father Lester's footsteps as he has.

It just had to come, his most recent honor, Victorians will agree.

NEW FISTIC HOPE

Charles Kayo Victim In Startling Upset

By ROLAND DOPSON

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UP)—Kayo winner Johnny Holman, jubilant at his biggest paycheque and biggest victory, made plans for moving up the heavyweight ladder today while battered loser Ezzard Charles hollowly declared he still wants one more shot at the title.

Holman, a whopping 5-1 underdog, was losing when he suddenly unleashed a furious attack in the ninth round and technically knocked out Charles at 2.48 of that session.

Holman, who floored the former heavyweight champion for an eight count in the first round, dropped him again for nine in the ninth and had Charles reeling about, literally out on his feet in one of the worst whippings of his career, when referee Eddie Coachman called a halt.

"We would like to match Johnny next against the winner of the Archie Moore-Nino Valdes bout in Las Vegas, or against Bob Baker of Pittsburgh," said Bernie Glickman, manager of the towering Chicagoan. "He's ready for anyone now, including Marciano. All we need is three weeks' rest."

Holman may be ready for Marciano, but Charles was ready to admit sadly that his quest for a third shot at the heavyweight champion has been set way, way back by Wednesday night's nationally-televised loss at Miami Beach Auditorium.

The sudden manner in which Charles caved in under Holman's late onslaught led many observers to believe he may never again be ready for a title chance. After suffering the first-round knockdown from a hard right that landed back of his left ear, Charles seemed to be in control of the fight and was leading by a narrow margin on the United Press card, 77-75, at the end of the eight rounds.

SCORING PROBLEM

Today's Baseball Teaser

ST. LOUIS (AP)—How would you score this play?

Larry Jackson of St. Louis Cardinals is on second and Wally Moon on first when Rip Repulski hits a slow grounder down third base in a game with Chicago Cubs April 17. Pitcher Hy Cohen fields the ball and chooses to throw to third. Jackson beat the ball there and rounded third standing up but was tagged out by Vern Morgan when he tried to get back to the base.

Official scorer Ellis Veech didn't credit Repulski with a hit. He cited rule 1006B which says that when an infield batted ball results in another runner, who is attempting to advance one base, being retired, whether force out or not, a base hit shall not be scored.

But Veech had some doubts and asked Warren Giles, National League president, for a ruling. Giles said in a letter received Wednesday that Repulski should be credited with a hit.

Giles said that because Jackson rounded third standing up, it is reasonable to assume he was attempting to advance more than one base and, therefore, rule 1006B doesn't apply.

YANKS LOSE SERVICES OF BILL SKOWRON

CHICAGO (AP)—Bill Skowron, New York Yankees' hard-hitting first baseman, may be out of action for a number of weeks as the result of a muscle injury received while running out a triple in the third inning of Wednesday's game with Chicago White Sox.

The full extent of the injury was not known Wednesday night but the American League's leading hitter with a .451 average was barely able to hobble about the hotel.

Skowron also leads the league with 18 runs batted in.

Aussies Buckle Down To Olympic Planning

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—A traveler from Australia reports Melbourne received an awful jolt recently from Avery Brundage, the Olympics president, but came out of it in good shape and now is digging in like crazy in a belated drive to make the 1956 games a success.

Gerald Patterson, who was one of the world's best tennis players around 1920 and has lived in Melbourne most of his life, says Brundage's visit and his criticism of the progress made up to this time really lighted a fire under his fellow citizens. Patterson is stopping over here briefly en route to England.

"The carpenters' strike which had held up work on the Olympic Stadium was settled just before I left. Everything has been stream-lined and the bottlenecks eliminated. All the money that is needed is there ready to be spent, and those in charge have full authority to spend it without going through a lot of red tape," he said.

He was asked how Melbourne, with fewer hotel rooms than are to be found in an average city of 100,000 in this country, hoped to absorb the multitude which will descend upon it?

"That's worried me, too," Patterson confessed. "According to your standards we are in bad shape for hotels, but we have already started to take care of that by lining up rooms in private homes. . . I'm sure that by the time of the games we will have rooms for everybody."

City Two-Time Losers, But Ready to Try Again

Shores Edge Locals, 3-1; Small Crowd for Night Game

North Shore 3, Victoria City 1

By DENNY BOYD

Victoria City lost seven bucks and a chance to move into first place in the Coast Soccer League in their first experiment with arc-light soccer Wednesday night but they are going to try it again.

While it may take a little longer to get another shot at first place, City officials are tentatively planning for another night game next week, hopeful that as the weather begins to warm up soccer fans will come out of winter hibernation and give the team a break at the gate.

A disappointing crowd of only 489 turned out to Athletic Park Wednesday night to see North Shore Reds, led by three-goal Tom Cooper and goalie Joe Travis, beat down a first-place bid by City with a 3-1 victory.

By their victory, North Shore stretched their league lead to three points over second-place New Westminster Royals and four points over Victoria.

The opportunistic Cooper was as bright as the arc lights for North Shore, scoring three straight goals to bring Shores from behind after George Wright's goal had given Victoria an early 1-0 lead.

Shores Toughest in Clutch

Quicker on the ball throughout the game, particularly in the second half, North Shore wove their defense around a clever ground-passing game and won most of the battles for loose balls. Fullbacks Harry Anderson and George Beckett constructed a solid defense in front of goalie Travis and Travis proved he still is the peer of Coast League goalies with some sparkling saves.

Victoria actually held the edge in territorial play but lacked finish when they got near Travis and were unable to mount a constructive play-making pattern. Absence of sound ground-passing lost them possession of the ball numerous times.

City's new goalie, Tom Chalmers, who covers an acre of ground in front of his nets, gave signs that he will be a big help to City. Of the goals that beat him, two were on rebounds and one appeared to be offside.

Harry Carruthers took a goal-away from Shores with a goal-mouth block in the early going and Cec Robb skimmed a hard shot over the bar.

City's Lead Short Lived

Shortly after Chummy Crabbe had made Travis hop with a snap shot, Wright scored the first goal when his 60-foot drive fooled Travis by catching the upper right-hand corner, just under the bar, at 17 minutes.

Cooper got his first goal at 26 minutes, snapping a rebound home after Chalmers leaped high to punch out Jimmy Greig's floating corner kick. Cooper scored again at 36 minutes, being set in the clear by Gordy Ion, although the play seemed glaringly offside.

Six minutes into the second half, Cooper completed his hat trick. Winger Bob Swinton lofted a shot into the goal area and Chalmers slapped it down at Cooper's feet, the clever centre forward wasting no time bulleting it into the net.

With a two-goal lead, North Shore was content to fall back on a spoiling game throughout most of the second half.

City's last good scoring chance came near the 25-minute mark when centre forward Ken Hibbert, checked well through most of the match, drove a close-in shot directly into Travis' chest. Travis, as surprised as anyone, held the ball to preserve the lead.

Flyers Shorthanded For Playoff Tonight

SHAWINIGAN FALLS, Que. (BUP)—The Shawinigan Falls Cataracts put their two-to-one game lead on the line before hometown fans tonight in the fourth game of the best-of-nine Edinburgh Cup hockey series against the Edmonton Flyers.

Coach Bud Poile of Edmonton was short two men, his brother Don, who suffered a concussion from a tumble into the boards at the Montreal Forum Tuesday night, and Larry Zeidel, who suffered a concussion in Sunday's game.

Poile said if he had any more disabling injuries, he would apply for permission to play himself. He saw action in three or four regular season games.

Shawinigan goalie Robert Perreault was hailed as the hero of the series so far for allowing the high-scoring Flyers only eight goals in three games. The Flyers' Bronco Horvath scored 50 times in the 70-game regular season, and five others scored 20 or more.

Ray Hannigan will replace Don Poile on the line with Jerry Melnyk and Lorne Davis tonight.

Mike Souchak Top Golf Money Winner

CHICAGO (UP) — A total of $14,648 makes ex-football player Mike Souchak golf's top money winner after four months on the tournament trail, according to the Professional Golfers' Association.

The PGA said last night that Souchak holds the all-time PGA record for 72 holes with a 257, well ahead of runner-up Gene Littler, who has collected $11,713.

Masters' winner Dr. Cary Middlecoff moved from ninth to third place with $10,323 in the bank. Jerry Barber was fourth with $8,871 and young Billy Maxwell was fifth with $8,249.

Sammy Snead, who had been trailing the pack, moved into the Vardon trophy lead with 833 strokes over 12 rounds for a 69.41 average. Ted Kroll was second with 2,506 strokes for 36 rounds and a 69.61 average. Souchak was ineligible for the Vardon trophy this year.

B.C. Boxers Named For Dominion Meet

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Four city boxers will represent British Columbia at the Canadian amateur boxing championships in Regina on May 5, 6 and 7.

The Lower Mainland Boxing Association named bantamweight Hughie Meikle and welterweight Norm Jorgenson from the Burrard Athletic Club and 118-pound Lloyd Dupas and Jimmy Walters of South Hill.

The selection of a coach was expected to be announced Saturday.

CRICKET WORKOUT

Five C's cricket club has scheduled a workout tonight for 6.30 at Beacon Hill Park. All last year's players and others interested are invited to attend.

Horse-Doping Tests Not Wholly Foolproof

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dr. G. H. W. Lucas, new president of the Association of Official Racing Chemists, conceded Wednesday the association's scientific tests do not spot every case of horse doping.

"It would be as much folly to say every case of illegal drugging is detected as to say every criminal act is discovered and the guilty party punished," said the pharmacology professor from the University of Toronto.

"Any failure is greatly magnified and gives an opportunity to those opposed to the sport to whisper that there are drugs which defy detection."

Dr. Lucas didn't mention specifically an article in Life magazine as being the provocation for his report to the National Association of Racing Commissioners.

But it obviously was. The article has been the steamiest topic of talks since the commission convention opened Monday.

MARLBOROS NEAR TITLE

Dream Goal Sinks Pats

REGINA (CP)—A dream goal, straight from a face-off and parlayed through the defence for an unassisted score in overtime, has carried Toronto Marlboros to within a game of the Memorial Cup junior hockey championship.

The counter, scored by centre Billy Harris, broke up an overtime tie Wednesday night to give Toronto a 3-2 win over Regina Pats and a big 3-1 edge in games in the best-of-seven series.

Harris nailed the puck from the faceoff and spurted towards the Regina goal. He seemed to half-jump, half-stickhandle his way through two Regina men on defense, Lionel Repka and Grant Munro, and almost fell into the net as he came up on goalie Joe Selinger.

PULLED GOALIE

His short shot struck Selinger's stick as he went down to save and the puck flipped over his right shoulder.

Harris scored just 44 seconds into overtime, hardly a minute after Pats had sent the game into extra time.

Coach Murray Armstrong pulled Selinger with 37 seconds left in the game with his team down 2-1 and sent out a six-man line.

All-star defenseman Murray Balfour tied it 2-2 at 19.45, firing the puck behind Johnny Albani in the Toronto net from a scramble.

Harris also set up Marlboros' first goal by Al MacNeil in the second period and passed to winger Ken Girard in the third period.

Balfour, a standout for Pats, also fired his team's first-period goal.

Dutchmen Can Take Allan Cup Tonight

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, one game away from the Allan Cup, plan no lineup changes for tonight's fifth game. Dutchies, leading Fort William, 3-1, in the best-of-seven series, hope to end the Canadian senior hockey final here with that encounter.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—John Holman, 202¾, Chicago, stopped Ezzard Charles, 193½, Cincinnati (9).

Turk Beams, But Won't Go on Limb

REGINA (CP)—Coach Turk Broda of Toronto Marlboros was smiling wide-eyed again Wednesday night after his team's 3-2 overtime win over Regina Pats in the fourth game of the Memorial Cup junior hockey final.

"They played like a hockey team tonight," he said with pride after Marlboros went ahead 3-1 in the best-of-seven series. "Pats were in a hockey game all the way through."

However, Turk wasn't making any predictions about his club claiming the silverware in the fifth game Friday.

"It's never over until the last whistle," Broda said.

Coach Murray Armstrong of Pats was a dejected figure in the Regina dressing room. He took the loss pretty hard.

"But you can't blame the kids," he said. "They did their best."

Toronto president Harold Ballard figured Marlboros looked their best of the series in the game. He said they were sharper and keener all-round.

TOMATO-THROWING RIOTER FINED $35

MONTREAL (BUP)—Andre Robinson, 28, was fined $35 and costs today for hitting National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell with a ripe tomato at the St. Patrick's Day riot at the Forum.

He was charged with simple assault and disturbing the peace. Judge Pascal Lachapelle fined him $10 on the first charge and $25 on the second. He pleaded guilty.

Campbell stood in the rear of the courtroom as the judge levied the fines but was not called to testify.

The charge grew out of the riot in protest against the suspension of Montreal Canadien star Maurice Richard.

NOT ALL FRANK'S FAULT

Boucher Defended By New York Editor

NEW YORK (CP) — A New York Times sports columnist says Frank Boucher was not entirely to blame for New York Rangers' failure to produce winning teams during his nine-year tenure as general manager of the National Hockey League club.

Boucher, who resigned his Ranger post last week, "was overwhelmed by the perniciousness of the hockey setup," writes Arthur Daley in a review of the one-time all-star centre's 29-year career as a Ranger player and executive.

Daley blames long-time Ranger manager Lester Patrick in part for the Rangers' downfall. Patrick had started in 1926 with a formidable team sparked by Boucher and linesmates Bill and Bun Cook. As they grew older, they were replaced by Neil and Mac Colville and Patrick's sons, Muzz, who has succeeded Boucher as general manager, and Lynn.

"Along came the war," Daley continues. "The cautious Patrick marked time and failed to stock for the future . . . At the war's end the Colvilles and the Patricks didn't have it any more. So Lester was left with nothing. The Rangers have yet to recover."

Daley also blames the NHL rule giving each team territorial rights to an area within 50 miles of its home rink, which worked to the disadvantage of New York, Boston and Chicago.

Daley says the final blow was the boomerang effect of Boucher's popularity with the press in all NHL cities, which "aroused childish jealousies among the small-minded big brass of the National Hockey League."

As a result, Daley writes, when the stronger NHL clubs decided to give up excess talent to the weaker teams, "Chicago was strengthened greatly, Boston moderately and New York not at all."

Clyde Takes Scottish Cup

GLASGOW (Reuters)—Clyde won the Scottish Football Association Cup for the second time in its history Wednesday night by beating Celtic 1-0 in a replay game at Hampden Park here.

A second-half goal by international left winger Tommy Ring, who had earlier missed two good chances, brought the cup to Clyde.

The two teams drew 1-1 Saturday, necessitating the replay.

A crowd of 60,000 saw Clyde seize the initiative and keep it for the whole game.

The Clyde men's success lay mainly in their half-line, which repeatedly foiled Celtic raids. The forwards played well but were inclined to over-elaborate their plays just when in sight of the goal.

A's Hit for Distance, But Can't Get Mileage

By The Associated Press

It may be those Kansas City steaks, but the Athletics are sprouting biceps and a home-run punch. Trouble is, they were better off as puny singles hitters back iin Philadelphia.

A's have swatted 17 home runs so far, yet have won only five of 12 games. A year ago, with a mere four homers, they were 7-5. And in 1953, with nine home runs, they were also 7-5.

They have a three-game winning streak going now, of course, and may be set to pad it. But the 1954 crew had won three straight after their 12th game, too.

Jim Finigan, Gus Zernial, Bill Renna, Vic Power and Bill Wilson have clouted all the Athletic home runs.

A's TIED IN 6TH

Renna, Zernial and Wilson connected again Wednesday as A's, with a fancy three-hit performance by sore-arm Cloyd Boyer, knocked off Boston Red Sox 6-2. That left the As, despite their 5-7 mark, in a tie for sixth place with Washington, just 2½ games behind Red Sox in a surprisingly tight race.

Chicago took first by clubbing New York Yankees 13-4. Yanks slipped to a second-place tie with Cleveland—only 21 percentage points back—as Indians beat Washington 6-5 in 17 innings. Detroit replaced Boston in fourth place by beating Baltimore 11-3.

In the National, Brooklyn beat Cincinnati 7-2 Wednesday night to stay three games up on Milwaukee. Braves whipped New York Giants 9-6 in a day game. Pittsburgh slipped out of the cellar as the Redlegs fell in, beating Chicago 4-1.

Cleveland didn't shake off Washington until Bobby Avila lifted a sacrifice fly with the bases loaded and one out in the 17th inning. Both clubs used four hurlers. Chuck Stobbs lost it and Art Houtteman won it.

At the Polo Grounds, big Gene Conley two-hit Giants for eight innings and had a 9-1 lead that withstood a five-run New York rally in the ninth. Five Milwaukee runs chased starter Ruben Gomez in the second and Hank Aaron, Bobby Thomson and Danny O'Connell followed it up with home runs.

MRS. DENHAM TAKES SPRING CUP FOR KEEPS

Mrs. Cliff Denham won the Spring Cup for the third time at Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club Wednesday, thus retiring it from competition. Mrs. Denham defeated defending champion Mrs. Hugh McIntyre, one-up.

The cup, donated by Dr. G. Luden and Miss F. Fitzgibbon in 1930, was won previously by Mrs. Denham in 1939 and 1949. Double winners were Mrs. Art Dowell, '38, '53, and Mrs. Walter Parry, '30, '31.

SKI HEIL

Snow Conditions Still Good at Brenton

If the weather keeps up, Victoria Sno-Birds may be skiing until June. Stumps which were beginning to work their way to the surface are now hidden again under a healthy layer of snow at Mount Brenton; and every week-end finds ski enthusiasts disporting themselves at this southern Vancouver Island ski ground.

A group of five Sno-Birds travelled to Vancouver's Mount Seymour last week-end. They were Eunice and Bernie deVos, John Reid, Erwin Egger and Toni Lamprecht.

Although weather conditions were bad, and visibility limited, Toni ran the gruelling downhill course, finishing fifth out of 35 entrants, with a time of one minute, 34 seconds.

He was the only Sno-Bird racing, and expressed admiration for the Seymour style—and girls, about 15 of whom ran the course, where speeds up to 90 miles an hour were clocked.

The newly-formed ULLR Ski Club of Port Alberni has issued invitations to participate in their giant slalom race this coming week-end. There will be a cup for the best Island skier. Interested Sno-Birds should contact Allan or Betty Brawn at 8-3489.

A general meeting has been called for Tuesday night at 8 in Williams Hall.

Topic will be the Sno-Birds' summer plans for expansion. Attendance has been so good this past winter that a new addition to the cabin is a necessity.

West Indies Still Trails

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (Reuters)—The West Indies was 58 runs behind Australia with all its second innings wickets standing Wednesday at the close of the second day of the third test match here.

The Australian cricketers gained a first-innings lead of 75, being all out for 257 in reply to a West Indies total of 182. West Indies was 17 for no wicket at close of play.

Fine all-round bowling kept the Australian lead down in spite of good innings by Colin McDonald with 61 runs and Richie Benaud with 68. The last five Australian wickets fell for 42.

Garfield Sobers, 18-year-old spinner, and Denis Atkinson each took three wickets. Sonny Ramadhin claimed two, including that of Neil Harvey.

Australia won the first Test and the second was drawn.

Suspended Sentence For Clarence Henry

NEW YORK (AP)—Former heavyweight boxer Clarence Henry Wednesday received a suspended sentence of one to three years in prison for trying to bribe another fighter.

General sessions judge John A. Mullen said in suspending the jail term he was convinced the 27-year-old negro was "the tool of some other slimy creature."

Henry, nervously shifting on his feet, broke into a smile when he found he was not going to jail, and said fervently: "You'll never have to worry about me, judge."

He pleaded guilty in February to offering a $15,000 bribe to fix a Madison Square Garden middleweight fight June 11, 1954. He said he offered the money to Irving "Bobby" Jones of Oakland, Calif., to throw his fight with Joey Giardello. Jones reported the bribe attempt, and then went on to lose in a close decision.

Henry's attorney, James R. Duff, said Henry was "tagged as the next world's heavyweight champion . . . but right at the height of his successes, he suffered an eye injury that ended his fistic career and threatened total blindness. He knows what he did was wrong, but in his plight, he presented a perfect foil for undisclosed higher-ups."

Assistant district attorney Alfred J. Scott said no corroborative evidence had been obtained to prove who the would-be higher-up fixer was.

Rainiers Stopped; Angels Close Ground

By The Associated Press

The old refrain of "you can't win 'em all" echoed in Seattle Thursday.

Riding atop the Pacific Coast League after six straight wins, the Rainiers set out after No. 7 Wednesday night, with San Diego as the intended victim. The bubble burst in the first inning.

Aided by two Seattle errors, the Padres tapped Elmer Singleton and reliefer Bill Kennedy for four first inning runs and went on to a 6-3 triumph.

The loss cut Seattle's margin over second-place Los Angeles to 1½ games. The Angels beat Hollywood 3-2 at Los Angeles. San Francisco edged Oakland 11-10 in 11 innings in the only other game. Portland and Sacramento were not scheduled.

Seattle fought back after its dismal start against the Padres, scoring two runs in the third and another in the seventh. But San Diego got two tallies in the eighth for insurance.

Two walks and an infield error in the ninth inning set up Los Angeles for a tightly pitched victory over Hollywood.

In Oakland Chuck Stevens three-run homer in the 11th gave San Francisco an 11-10 victory. There were five other round trippers.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices were irregular in quiet trading. Highlight of developments on the exchange was the trade report of sale of 3,700,000 bushels of wheat to Japan.

Other export business included the sale of a cargo of barley to Northern Ireland and parcel lot sales of barley, flax and rye to the continent.

Lakehead prices for the top grades of Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat were unchanged.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Industrials Slip Again At Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Prices edged lower amid light trading.

Almost all components of the industrial list were lower with the exception of steels, foods and retail stores. Some strength in key stocks, however, pushed the index ahead half a point.

Losses ranged to three points and gains to one. Weston's had the biggest drop falling $3. Loblow Groceterias B and Loblaw Inc. lost $2 and $1 respectively, General Dynamics fell $3 and Aluminum $1.

Stocks managing gains included Steel, up $2, and International Petroleum, up $1.

Home Oil jumped 40 cents to $9.15 in a weak western oils group. Noranda gained 1⅛ in base metals but Quemont and Falconbridge dropped ⅜.

Sullivan, Preston East Dome and Pato Consolidated had losses up to 35 cents in golds.

NEW YORK (AP)—The market backed down swiftly in a selling flurry today and held quietly lower.

BCE May Apply Again for Higher Bus Fares—Grauer

VANCOUVER (BUP) — Continuing deficits in transit operations and the problems of marketing gas on a profitable basis were listed today as the chief problems facing the B.C. Power Corporation, and its subsidiary, B.C. Electric Co.

A. E. "Dal" Grauer, president of the corporation, told shareholders at their 27th annual meeting today that despite these problems, however, the corporation "might show improved net earnings for 1955."

Grauer said the company would lose $500,000 of expected net earnings because of the lowering of transit fares in Greater Vancouver to their former level, but would gain $100,000 through a reduction in corporation income tax.

Grauer said that between 1945 and 1954 passengers riding the transit systems in Greater Vancouver and Victoria declined by 20.3 per cent.

Grauer said that transit riding declined 3.4 per cent last year and warned that "there is a limit to the extent that transit can be subsidized by the other services." He added: "If declining riding and increased costs continue, we may have to file higher transit fares at a later date."

The president said it would take two construction seasons to build the natural gas pipeline from the Peace River to serve the lower mainland, "and a further three years or so to build sales up to the point where natural gas is earning a full return on its investment."

Aluminium Ltd. Earnings Up

MONTREAL (CP) — Nathanael V. Davis, president of Aluminium Ltd., today told the annual meeting that the recent decision to continue expansion of the Kitimat, B.C., smelter "reflects what appears to be an unrelenting demand for primary aluminum."

He said preliminary estimates of net profit for the first quarter of 1955 are $9,000,000, or 90 cents a share, compared with $6,800,000, or 68 cents a share for the corresponding period a year ago. First-quarter earnings have absorbed some expenses in getting into production at the new Kitimat site.

Little Man's Spending Cast Recession Aside

The Canadian public can take a bow for pulling this country out of the recession which made its presence felt in the early part of last year.

That is the conclusion that must be reached in the light of a report just released by the National Industrial Conference Board, an independent, non-profit institution engaged in business and industrial fact finding.

The board says it was the little man who tipped the scales and brought about the much-needed economic recovery. He did it simply by buying more, even though this meant cutting back considerably on his personal savings program.

The board found buoyancy in personal consumption not only gave strong direct support to production and employment, but also provided a firm footing for forward business planning, so that progressive inventory liquidation was checked and cumulative slowdowns were averted.

* * *

During the whole of 1954, personal spending for consumer goods and services climbed $450,000,000 above the 1953 level. That represents a percentage increase of 3.1. The biggest spending spree came in the fourth quarter.

Reflecting on these figures, the conference board points out: "Although the rise in consumption was less than in any other postwar year, the 3.1 per cent increase is remarkable for a period when personal disposable income increased by less than .5 per cent."

Anaylzing what provoked this increased spending, the conference board discovered these main contributing factors: 1, a two per cent increase in total labor income (despite more unemployment); 2, tax reductions that took effect in mid-1953, coupled with higher welfare disbursements; and 3, more competitive salesmanship.

* * *

The conference board discovered a mixed trend in Canadian consumer spending. People spent 3.2 per cent more on non-durable goods and 6.4 per cent more on services.

At the same time, they spent 6.3 per cent less on durable goods. New products, such as television sets, automatic washing machines and home freezers, sold well, but gains here were more than offset by sharp declines in sales of automobiles and standard household articles such as refrigerators, nonautomatic washing machines, radios and furniture.

Pacific Northwest Pipeline Given Washington Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The last obstacle to financing of a $160,000,000 natural gas pipeline to the Pacific Northwest was removed Wednesday.

The Securities and Exchange Commission cleared the way for Pacific Northwest Pipeline Corp to sell securities to finance construction of the pipeline to Oregon and Washington.

In permitting the company's registration certificate to become effective, the commission, in effect, approved the company's financing plans. Federal Power Commission approval of the project and its financing already has been obtained.

Pacific proposes to build a 1,466-mile pipeline from near Ignacio, Colo., to a point near Bellingham, Wash., bringing natural gas for the first time to the Pacific Northwest states.

Burns & Company Shareholders Approve New Financial Structure

CALGARY (CP)—A new financial structure for Burns and Co. Ltd. was voted in Wednesday at a special shareholders' meeting.

The new structure, involving an issuance of new stock, is beneficial to holders of Class A stock while creating a drop in financial and voting power for holders of Class B.

The company plans to issue 1,000,000 no-par, common-value shares, giving six for one on Class A and four for one on Class B, creating a 50-per-cent loss in voting power for Class B.

The new common will be worth $28 a share. Class B at present is worth $112 a share. Class A is worth $112 with a $20 preference upon liquidation of the company and a $1 preference on yearly dividends.

Nudists Ruin Sailors' Aim

CANNES, France (UP) — Levant Island residents complained today that nudists apparently are spoiling the aim of sailors at the French navy's rocket experiment station there.

Officials of the island, which has a big nudist colony, protested that poorly-aimed rockets have been falling on the town beach.

The navy and the nudists have been feuding for some time because the navy fears the host of undraped female figures will take the sailors' minds off their job.

Survey to Probe Oil, Minerals In Arctic Isles

Operation Franklin To Be Biggest Yet

OTTAWA (CP) — Potential mineral and oil resources of a group of Arctic islands named after Queen Elizabeth will be determined this summer by the biggest geological survey in the history of the Canadian North.

The survey, called Operation Franklin, will be conducted by the geological survey branch of the mines and technical surveys department. The islands will be studied by aerial and ground survey parties and by airborne magnetometers.

FURTHER EXPLORATION

Dr. Y. O. Fortier, 40-year-old government geologist, told a press conference the survey will disclose the volume of oil and mineral deposits, including coal. Enough information would be obtained to determine whether the area should be further explored by oil companies.

Dr. L. W. Morley, 35, who will be in charge of the magnetometer work, said he will study the terrain under the channels separating the islands for oil-bearing strata.

The magnetometers also will be used in an effort to learn how far the continental shelf extends into the Arctic sea and to check a Russian report that an undersea mountain extends across the Arctic basin.

Mines Minister Prudham said the survey is the most ambitious ever undertaken by the branch. It would provide the first general information on the mineral and oil potential of a vast Arctic area.

The survey will cover 120,000 square miles. Among the islands to be examined are Somerset, Devon, Bathurst and Melville.

The actual survey by a 30-man party will last from June 10 to September 20.

4 Killed, 2 Hurt As Auto Crashes Train in Quebec

The dead are:

The two injured — Jean-Paul Desjardins, 36, and Rheal Desjardins, also from the Riviere du Loup areas—were taken to Victoria Hospital at Renfrew, Ont., seven miles from the accident scene. Their condition was reported as "fair." The car was demolished.

Audience Has Fun At Scottish Show

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

A Winnipeg Scotsman with a keen, dry wit, lively imagination and an apparently inexhaustable fund of humorous anecdotes, tall tales and verse, was the unique occupant of the guest spot at a concert Wednesday night by the Schubert Club female voice choir.

The all-Scottish concert, featuring Andrew Russell, drew one of the largest audiences to be seen for some time in Victoria High School auditorium.

It was an audience that went all the way with the performers, revelling in the lovely, lilting Scots airs sung by choir and soloists, nodding heads and whooping joyously to the skirl of pipes and the beat of Highland feet in well-executed sword dance, Reel of Tulloch and Highland Fling, and rocking with laughter as Russell played out his one-man show.

All the gifts of the born entertainer are Russell's, plus the smoothness, naturalness and vital projection that come from familiarity with audiences and long experience.

When he told of the "Fren'ly Wee Doug," it was almost impossible not to believe in the presence of a frisking pup about his feet and his rescue from drowning, told in three parts, the "real thing," "as the novelists do it" and in "operatic style," was a virtuoso performance, ranging from human comedy to broad farce.

Among the choral numbers that were distinctive for their beauty of tone, fine blend and subtle phrasing, were Bantock's "O Can Ye Sew Cushions?", "The Rowan Tree," arranged by J. Saunders, "Think On Me" and the Hebridean folk song, "Eriskay Love Lilt," in which a brief, delightful solo passage was sung by soprano Kathleen Paulin.

Marjorie Sturgeon's rich, warm soprano was at its best in two solos, "Rise and Follow Love" and "Charlie Is My Darling." Vera Barclay, the choir's director and possessor of an outstanding, powerful voice of exceptional quality, also sang a group, including "My Ain Wee House" and "My Love She's But a Lassie Yet."

Two charming numbers were sung by an ensemble from the choir consisting of Rosa Cooper, Elsie Edwards, Margaret Christison and Joy Stamford. Especially fine in nuance and delicate vocal coloring, was "Turn Ye to Me."

Accompanist throughout was James Saunders, who capably supported choir and soloists.

Piper Jamie Troy piped the choir on stage with "Road to the Isles" and accompanied the group of Adeline Duncan dancers. These were Lola and Margaret Brown, Roni Milton, Janet Klunck, Lynn Williams, Alex Esselmont and Susan Forrest.

Disunity Fear Pigeon Holes New Canadian Flag Design

TORONTO (CP) — Architect H. W. Bradfield, a member of the Young Canadian Club of Toronto, whose flag design was reported enthusiastically received by Prime Minister St. Laurent, said today he understood the federal government is not keen to approve the new flag at this time because it might lead to disunity.

Mr. Bradfield, who has made a study of flags and heraldry, designed a flag showing royal lions of gold on red in the upper left corner with gold fleurs-de-lis on blue in the lower right quadrant; and three red maple leaves on a white field in the upper right and lower left quadrants.

Alan Husband Pleases In First Full Recital

Victoria basso Alan Husband was presented in a recital of favorite songs Wednesday night by Esquimalt United Church Choir.

Mr. Husband was heard in a dozen selections, including such favorites as Handel's "Where e'er You Walk."

Accompanist was Mrs. Margaret Dixon, heard in a Beethoven rondo and two other more contemporary pieces.

An enthusiastic audience confirmed the belief of the sponsoring Esquimalt choir that Victoria talent should be given every chance for public appreciation. Mr. Husband demonstrated a voice with depth and color, and gave fine expression to many standard numbers of the basso repertoire. A pleasing platform manner and confident control established a rapport between artist and audience that would credit a much more experienced singer.

Mrs. Dixon, director of music at Esquimalt Church, intends to follow the initial auspicious recital with other "first" for young Victorians.

Nature Film To Be Shown By Natural History Group

Dr. Olin Sewall Pettingill, whose wildlife films have been used in making some of Walt Disney's nature movies, will present a film "Tip o' the Mitten" at 8 p.m. Friday at the Oak Bay Junior High School.

The film-lecture is sponsored by the Victoria Natural History Society.

The nature film will feature the northern tip of the mitten-shaped lower peninsula of Michigan with its magnificent forests, lakes, rivers and marshes. It will depict the work of biologists in this area.

Dr. Pettingill of Wayne, Maine, is a nationally known ornithologist who has written several text books on various phases of biologoy. One of his field manuals on bird life is used by over 100 colleges and universities in the United States.

In 1953, Walt Disney sent the naturalist to the Falkland Islands to make a documentary film on penguins. Disney has also used many of his films for making of some of his nature movies, such as the "Vanishing Prairie."

Dr. Pettingill was engaged for two years to conduct research on the whooping crane, which is now nearly extinct. He was also a co-leader of the Cornell University-Carleton College ornithological expedition to Mexico.

Biggest Base, Camp Gagetown, Opens May 16

CAMP GAGETOWN, N.B. (CP)—The army said today it will formally open this 420-square-mile divisional training base May 16 and 10,000 infantrymen will be quartered here six weeks later.

Eastern Command headquarters will move a maintenance team into the camp area in mid-May to begin preparing for the army's biggest peacetime training venture. Gagetown is the only military base in Canada where troops can be deployed in divisional strength.

U.S. Eases Plan to Curb Oil Imports

Ike Will Decide Quotas Imposition

WASHINGTON (CP)—A behind-the-scenes compromise worked out by the White House has averted the possibility of rigid U.S. import quotas that could have stifled western Canada's oil industry.

The powerful Senate finance committee has writen the compromise into President Eisenhower's reciprocal trade bill and accepted it as a substitute for a controversial amendment that would have limited imports of foreign oil, including supplies from Canadian oil fields, to 10 per cent of U.S. domestic consumption.

The possibility of quotas is still there, as a part of the compromise amendment, but now the president will have the final say on whether they are to be used. The original amendment, advanced as a protectionist device for oil and co-producing states, would have meant automatic imposition of a quota system.

The compromise gives the president authority to impose quotas on imports if in his opinion they injure domestic industries vital to national security. This includes the U.S. oil industry.

QUOTAS PROTESTED

The proposal for rigid quotas, though aimed largely at Venezuela and Iran, drew strong protests from Canada. Western Canada's export to the U.S. market, flowing from Edmonton through the Inter-Provincial and Trans-Mountain pipelines, averaged 7,000 barrels a day in 1954 and have shown a sharp increase in the first quarter of 1955.

Though the U.S. administration itself had opposed a quota system from the start the Canadian protests are believed here to have considerable influence in forcing rejection of the proposal. Canada made an official protest March 8 in a diplomatic note which emphasized the possible damage to the Canadian oil industry.

In accepting the compromise amendment, the Senate finance committee also threw out another proposal for quotas on imports of lead and zinc. This, too, had caused concern in Canadian business circles.

The trade bill, which extends the president's tariff-cutting powers for three years, now goes to the Senate for approval.

ADLAI STEVENSON

'MY CHOICE'

Truman Sees Stevenson As President

CHICAGO (UP) — Former President Truman said Wednesday Adlai E. Stevenson is his "choice" for the 1956 Democratic presidential nomination, and predicted the Democrats will win the White House even over President Eisenhower.

Mr. Truman also voiced praise of youthful Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee, but denied that he was plugging for a Stevenson-Clement ticket in 1956.

"I'm not nominating any ticket," he told a news conference. "That's up to the Democratic convention."

However, he said "my choice" for the presidential nomination was Stevenson, former Illinois governor who made the unsuccessful race in 1952.

HOME GARDEN — By JACK BEASTALL

Good Soil Better Than Spraying

The modern trend is to apply a poisonous spray on the least provocation, and even without provocation.

When a gardener told me he sprayed his garden regularly with DDT once every month, I inquired what pest was troubling him and he replied:

"I just do it on general principle. It's a good policy, isn't it?"

Jack

On general principles, I never use a spray if there is any other feasible way of controlling a pest, and since the weakest plants are first to fall to a disease or pest, building up the soil to produce healthy growth is still the best pest and disease control.

The farmer or commercial grower, with acres of crops to attend, must of necessity resort to sprays in order to keep production costs down, but the home gardener, with just a few rows of this and that, can very well spare the time to use the older and less drastic methods.

Control of the cabbage root maggot is an instance. An eight-inch square of tarpaper or roofing, with a slot from one side to a small hole in the centre, placed around each cabbage will prevent the fly laying its eggs near the roots.

The same material in strips close to each side of a row of carrots lessens the chances of eggs being laid by the roots. Caterpillar and slug eggs destroyed by hand obviates the need for sprays and baits.

Nicotine sulphate and Bordeaux mixture, for aphids and fungus diseases, will still be needed, but these are less dangerous to both user and food crops.

B.C. Possible Health Spa Says Winch

OTTAWA (CP) — A health resort industry in Canada rivalling the spas of Europe was envisaged Wednesday in the Commons.

Harold E. Winch (CCF-Vancouver East) said Canada could have a multi-million-dollar industry if it developed its resources of "natural health" materials—hot and cold mineral springs, hormone peats and saline clays.

Mr. Winch, speaking in the Commons budget debate, said natural health methods have been largely ignored in Canada. They could be valuable if developed in collaboration with medical science.

He credited natural health methods with helping people given up as hopeless under normal treatment methods. He knew of one woman made immoveable by rheumatoid arthritis who now was able to look after herself, knit and get around her house after such treatment.

Mr. Winch said he himself suffered torn chest ligaments in an auto accident which under normal treatment would have required spending five or six weeks with his chest strapped.

After 10 days of hormone peat treatment, he said, "I didn't know I had an accident."

He knew of 30 hot and cold mineral springs in British Columbia alone, together with millions of tons of hormone peats and plentiful supplies of saline clays. West coast Indians could do almost miraculous things with those materials.

With vision, planning and research, B.C. could be known as the health mecca of the world.

Halifax Elects First Jewish Mayor

HALIFAX (CP) — Alderman Leonard A. Kitz, a 39-year-old lawyer and Second World War combat veteran, Wednesday was elected as the first Jewish mayor of Halifax. Only 56 per cent—17,388—of the seaport's 31,000 eligible voters voted. Mr. Kitz won the five-way fight with a pluralitty of nearly 2,000 over his closest competitor, veteran alderman and former mayor John E. Lloyd, 47.

It will be the first test at the polls for Mr. Matheson who became premier in 1953 when the late J. Walter Jones was elevated to the Senate. The last general election was April 26, 1951.

The Liberals hold 23 of the 30 seats in the House. The Progressive Conservatives, led by R. R. Bell, have six and one is vacant.

CUTTING SHAKES

Three-Man Sawmill Works to Capacity

JORDAN RIVER—One of the smallest mills on Vancouver Island, and certainly one of the busiest, is a shake mill operated here by Bob Bendickson and Harold Schmitke of Mission City.

Owned by Meeker's Cedar Products Ltd. of Mission City, it is one of four operated by the company on the Island. It was started March 7, and cuts 150 bundles, or 30 squares, each day.

When the mill is going full bell a third man, or splitter, is employed. He chops blanks from cedar blocks that, when finished, measure two feet in length by about six inches wide and from one and one-half to two inches thick.

These are passed on to Bob Bendickcon, sawyer, who slices them diagonally on a band saw to make two shakes from each blank.

On finishing the cut, he merely drops the shakes, and they fall down a ramp to Harold Schmitke, who packs them into bundles ready for shipment.

"We can't keep up with our orders," Bendickson said.

Shakes are shipped by truck to Saseenos where they are loaded into railroad cars. Right now the output of the little mill is going to Texas, where the shakes are sold under a 100-year guarantee.

PIECE-WORK PAY

Only source of power is a two-cylinder air-cooled gas engine that runs the bandsaw and an automatic saw grinder, but it is sufficient to lop off the sawyer's arm if he is careless for a split second.

No place for the faint-hearted, this! The crew is paid on a piece-work basis, and as a result shakes whiz through the bandsaw at a speed that has the uninitiated seeing s-e-v-e-r-e-d wrists and forearms in all directions.

The sawyer, though, has been at the business for seven years and still has all his fingers and thumbs.

The mill never will be larger. The owner's system for increasing production is to establish more of the one-saw, three-man units close to large logging operations and a steady source of supply of raw material.

Nanaimo Delegation Seeks Ladysmith Aid In Hospital Effort

Hub City Wants 600-Bed Mental Institution; Population Centre Said North of Malahat

LADYSMITH—Support for Nanaimo's request that the proposed new provincial mental hospital be located in the central Vancouver Island area was requested by representatives of the Nanaimo Chamber of Commerce and Junior Chamber of Commerce at the regular meeting of the Ladysmith Chamber here this week.

J. Warwick spoke on behalf of the senior chamber and N. Weston spoke for the Nanaimo junior chamber. At the conclusion of their talk they were told that the local chamber will consider the request and probably will make a decision at next Monday's meeting.

Listing reasons why the Nanaimo chamber believes the hospital should be located in the central Vancouver Island area, Mr. Warwick said that his area needed something to level off employment through the year.

HIGH UNEMPLOYMENT

He said the area from Ladysmith to Parksville had one in eight unemployed at the worst seasons of the year compared with one in 24 in the Victoria area and one in 24 in the best seasons compared with one in 52 in the Victoria area.

The proposed hospital, Mr. Weston said, would have a staff of more than 600 and these persons would have year-round employment.

CREATE JOBS

Mr. Weston told the meeting that the economy of the central area had been stabilized in recent years by the big building boom and the program of highway construction. He said that these seemed to be levelling off now and unless something else was undertaken to provide new jobs, there would be an unemployment problem.

He said that the construction of the hospital would provide jobs in the construction trades for about a year and then there would be staff jobs available.

Nanaimo's efforts to have the institution located in the central area were part of a larger program to increase the population of the area to the point where it could support more secondary industries, he said. In addition to the staff which would be employed in the hospital, the institution would bring others because it would increase the market for farm and dairy products.

POPULATION BOOST

He said that there are already 116,000 people living north of the Malahat on Vancouver Island compared with 112,000 living south of it, and there are indications that the population of the northern portion will increase by another 50,000 in the next 10 years.

He told the meeting that when the Nanaimo chambers had presented their first brief to provincial government officials they were told to get the reaction of the people living in the central area.

"That is what we are here for today," he said.

7 JUVENILES ON PROBATION FOR TRESPASSING ON E & N

Colwood RCMP said today seven juveniles under the age of 14 years were placed on six-month probation when they appeared in Colwood juvenile court Wednesday charged with trespassing on a railway.

The youths were ordered to report monthly to the RCMP detachment.

RCMP said the charges were laid by CPR police following several complaints of youths placing rocks and other debris on Esquimalt-Nanaimo railway tracks.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Some of the most important news items have a way of getting buried, 'way, 'way back in the paper.

As, for instance, this despatch from Vancouver, which was tucked unobtrusively away on page 13 yesterday:

VANCOUVER (CP)—Native Sons of B.C. want November 19 to be proclaimed "B.C. Day"—a provincial holiday. The group will make this proposal to the government and will seek the support of several clubs in the province.

When the Native Sons make this proposal to the government, I hope the government plays close attention.

Setting aside November 19 as a holiday to honor those born in B.C. is a splendid idea. But, as so often happens with splendid ideas, it doesn't go far enough.

It is all very well to be proud of being born in B.C. But let us not slight our friends who were born elsewhere, and thus became British Columbians by choice—not because their mothers happened to be in B.C. when they were born.

Why, looking around the city room as I write this, I can see where we need a Manitoba Day, Ontario Day, Quebec Day, Saskatchewan Day, and Northwest Territories Day.

It would take very little research to uncover the necessity for Alberta, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Newfoundland Days.

Naturally, all these Days would be declared holidays. And they would all fall on different days in the year.

That's what we need around here, more holidays.

The more one looks into this idea, the more possibilities one envisaged. Why confine the "Days" to the provinces and territories of Canada? What is wrong with our Good Neighbor to the South? I am sure we could find B.C. citizens who originally came from each of the states, which would give us 48 more holidays. No, 49, including District of Columbia Day.

Or even 50, if we had two holidays for Texas, which is the least a good Texan would expect.

On reviewing the above, I find we would have only 61 Native Sons days, so it might be wise to narrow our days down a bit.

We could have a day to honor all those born in a tent on the banks of Little Horsefly Lake.

And we could even have holidays like Born in the 800 Block Fisgard Street Day.

If we tried real hard, we could originate at least 365 such holidays a year, with one or two left over for Leap Year.

This would be a wonderful situation. We wouldn't get much work done, but we'd sure have fun.

Work May Resume on Liberian 'Hot' Ship

Local Unions Appeal to San Francisco Labor Leader for Ss. Mazatlan Ruling

Union members may resume repair and re-fit work on the Liberian-flag passenger liner Mazatlan, it was indicated this morning at a meeting between owner's representatives, the Liberian consul, union men, and government officials.

Work ceased Wednesday morning after an appeal to declare the ship "hot" was put before a meeting of the Metal Trades Council by representatives of the Seafarers' International Union. SIU seeks to have the owners employ crew belonging to that union.

No concrete reasons for the SIU action, which has included picketing at each of the ship's ports of call, has been offered to date, and the Metal Trades Council has asked its parent body in California whether unions should regard the ship as "hot.

Reply from Pacific Coast Metal Trades Council president William H. Way, San Francisco, was expected by union men here before the local council, SIU representatives and the Joint Shipyards Council, comprising three other unions, met at 3 p.m. today for a decision.

One union spokesman said in effect on behalf of his own union membership that men would return to the job if the ship is not considered hot in the U.S.

Another union agent said he felt the statement expressed the sentiment of other unions in both the Metal Trades Council, consisting of eight TLC union locals, and the Joint Shipyards Council, two members of which are CCL affiliates.

IMPROPER PRESSURE

Ship's owners, Margo Pacific Lines, claimed the Mazatlan had never been declared "hot" in the U.S. and that union action here instigated by the SIU was "an effort to impose a Canadian crew on the company by improper pressure."

SIU west coast representative Norman Cunningham, Vancouver, who attended this morning's meeting in assistant deputy attorney-general W. B. Colvin's office, said he has made an offer to the company which includes a Canadian crew and officers.

Union men criticized a statement made Wednesday by Liberian consul H. A. D. Oliver, Vancouver, in which he threatened to have Victoria declared a closed port to Liberian vessels.

Liberia, a small republic on the west coast of Africa, has the fourth largest number of ship registries in the world.

Spokesmen said the report which appeared was a "distortion" of the consul's meaning, although no denial has been issued.

Also present for the meeting today were deputy minister of labor William Sands, H. Knight and Edward E. Pearlman representing the owners, boilermakers' union international representative, James Downey, and plumbers' and pipefitters' international representative Clifford Priestly.

ACTING JUVENILE OFFICER Lyle Somers, Victoria city force, was confirmed in his position by police commission today. Somers, who has been on the force 10 years, served with traffic detail until last November when he was made juvenile officer on a temporary basis. The post was decided after competitive examination of numerous applicants.

DOCKS MONDAY

Grounded Ship Coming Here For Repairs

Yarrows Ltd. will drydock the Panamanian freighter Ss. Yiannis at Esquimalt Monday morning, and will attempt to repair damage sustained in a Vancouver harbor grounding without unloading the ship's wheat cargo.

Bottom plates were damaged when Yiannis grounded off Stanley Park Monday night. She was outward bound for South Africa with 10,000 tons of Canadian wheat.

Repairs cannot be made with Vancouver's drydock facilities without first unloading the wheat, at a cost of about $9,000.

Yarrows will survey the ship, and plans to effect temporary repairs so she can proceed to her destination. Company officials believe the job can be handled successfully, but will not know for certain until she is high and dry in the graving dock.

Yiannis is due at Esquimalt Sunday afternoon, and will proceed here under her own power.

29 Registered For Washington Goodwill Tour

Twenty-nine persons have registered for a Victoria Chamber of Commerce goodwill motor tour of Washington State in mid-May, C. R. Porter, secretary of the chamber's tourist trade group, reported today.

The chamber is striving to double that number before registrations close May 2.

Persons making the tour will leave here May 16 and return May 21 after visiting Wenatchee, Grand Coulee Dam, Spokane, Walla Walla, Yakima, Olympia, Seattle and Port Angeles.

PATROL ESCORT

Transportation is being arranged for those not wishing to take their own cars. The Washington State highway patrol is to provide a motorcycle escort for the caravan.

Purpose is to focus attention on Victoria and Vancouver Island, and drum up potential tourist business from the neighboring state. Registration fee for those making the tour is $7.50. Each traveler will take care of his own expenses during the tour, but hotel reservations have been made in advance so the party will stay together.

$10,000 Thefts Revealed Here

Jewelry Believed Stolen At Private House Party

By PETE LOUDON

Police Chief John Blackstock today revealed there were $10,000 in thefts during March which he kept on the "secret" list.

He declined to describe the nature of the thefts, but it was learned unofficially they may include a major jewel theft discovered after a party in a private home in mid-March.

Chief Blackstock unfolded the previously unpublicized thefts in his monthly report to the commission. It showed an increase of $11,154 in the value of stolen property in March compared to the corresponding month in 1954.

The report was received by the commission without comment, but when questioned later by the Times, Chief Blackstock said:

"The increase represents some big individual thefts which are still under investigation."

PROBE STILL ON

He said it was because the probe is continuing that the theft report had been kept from the press in their usual perusal of police reports.

Monthly reports submitted to the commission in the last three months show January's loss at $3,957, February at $5,437 and March at $16,591.

TWO DEATHS

Other highlights of the report showed two traffic deaths in March, 26 traffic injuries. Thirty juveniles were charged during the month. Four impaired drivers paid $1,000 total fines. Fines received from all sources totaled $4,915.

City by-laws were broken in 1,672 cases—none of the violators were charged with jaywalking or double-parking.

The commission met briefly with City Council justice committee members, Ald. Millard Mooney and Ald. Don Smith. In camera discussions centred on merits of moving jurisdiction of court employees from council to the commission.

CLOSER LIAISON

Commissioner William Hamilton said the move would be more than a bookkeeping adjustment, as court workers at present are under city manager Cecil Wyatt. If they were under Chief Blackstock it was felt there would be closer liaison as the offices are in the same building. The justice committee is expected to recommend the change to council.

The commission received a letter from the attorney-general's department promising consideration of a request for appointment of a woman probatioin officer.

Question of hiring members of the Corps of Commissionaires to check parking meters was tabled for further study.

Mayor Claude Harrison, chairman of the board, reiterated his intention to take to "higher courts" the majority report of a recent conciliation board which gave police a 5 per cent boost. The commission referred to council a letter from the department of labor which said it could not forward to the commission a copy of the award report.

CAYUGA CREW MAY UNDERGO INTERROGATION

Complete mystery still surrounded the theft of $14,500 from HMCS Cayuga as the investigation entered its fifth day today.

RCMP continued exploring all possible leads, and said it was "possible" each of the 300 officers and men aboard would be interrogated.

It was also revealed a second strong box in the cabin from which the money was stolen contained more than $20,000. The second strong box was not touched.

Loss of the $14,500 was discovered at 7 p.m. Saturday. It was taken from the cabin of Lieut. A. K. Cameron, ship's supply officer.

Cayuga is being detained in port while the RCMP investigation continues.

DARK HORSE

Harris Wins City Jaycee Presidency

A. Stickney Harris, dark horse candidate for 1955-56 presidency of Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce, was elected by a wide margin at the organization's annual meeting Wednesday night.

The B.C. Electric sales representative defeated the only other candidate, Lorrace Kirk, in a surprise upset, campaign for which included Hebridian music from a pair of bagpipe-blowing misses.

Harris was piped into the dinner meeting at McEwen's Restaurant, strolled majestically down a "red carpet" spread for him by eager aides, paraded the packed room and took his place nonchalantly in spite of the fact he entered the contest only one week before.

OFFICERS

His first vice-president will be Victor Fuggle, second vice-president Boyd Moore; secretary, Walter Beatty, and treasurer, Thomas McConnell.

Other offices filled were those of: Exhibition committee, Gordon Carter; civic affairs, Thomas Price; house committee, Joseph Despot; industrial affairs and tourist development, David Nightingale; membership, Norman Heaslip; national affairs, Lloyd Liesch; traffic safety, Len King; youth development, Bud Simpson.

William Davison, director of the Jaycee-sponsored Victoria Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition which starts Monday, reported on progress of his committee and mentioned Friday as a special day for children of the Protestant Orphanage.

About 50 orphans will be taken to and from the fair by B.C. Electric bus, and will be given free soda pop, ice cream and midway rides.

Most industrial and agricultural exhibits will be larger this year than in the past, the director said, with 80 head of prize cattle already expected to be shown.

Jurist Recommends Complete Autopsies

Mr. Justice H. W. Davey, in an appeal court judgment Wednesday dismissing the appeal of Lawrence Vincent against a murder conviction, urged law enforcement officers to make complete autopsies in all suspected homicide cases.

The jurist referred to the failure of police to make a complete autopsy on the body of 12 year-old Donna Corbett of Quesnel, whom the crown proved was murdered by Vincent, a 28 year-old circus worker.

Police failed to examine the contents of her stomach.

Meanwhile Vincent, who lost his last battle for his life before the B.C. Court of Appeal, will hang on June 14 for the shoe-lace strangling of the Quesnel girl in September, 1952. The accused was tried three times on the charge and twice convicted.

The five Appeal Court justices were unanimous in the opinion that circumstantial evidence overwhelmingly pointed to the guilt of the accused. They saw no reason to upset the jury's verdict after reviewing the case.

Defense lawyer Raymond Hughes said he will ask Ottawa to commute the death sentence to life imprisonment.

Mr. Justice Davey drew attention to the fact the autopsy did not include examination of the stomach.

OMISSION FOUND

Failure to complete a proper autopsy might result in the omission of vital evidence important to the Crown or the defense, His Lordship pointed out.

(In the case of Donna Lee, the defense claimed she was murdered at night and not during the day as the Crown alleged in its case. Examination of the stomach would have disclosed if she had eaten a meal).

Mr. Justice C. H. O'Halloran in his judgement said the Crown made a conclusive case against the accused. And, he pointed out, the evidence of the defense witnesses proved, on cross-examination, to be vulnerable.

Mr. Justice O'Halloran added the trial judge's address to the jury in Vancouver was fair.

Vincent was convicted entirely on circumstantial evidence.

The Crown at the trial alleged that the circus worker sent Donna Lee on an errand to get some cigarettes. He then borrowed a station wagon and induced the young girl to enter the car.

The Crown claimed there was evidence to show the Quesnel girl made a frantic attempt to escape from the car. The windshield of the car was broken, and some hair of the girl and footprints were found in the vehicle.

The girl was found badly beaten up and strangled with a shoelace near a lonely logging road, about three miles from her home.

Vincent was tried three times on the charge. He never took the witness box to testify on his own defense.

His lawyer advanced the theory the young girl was murdered by someone else during the night. The Crown said the murder took place between the hours of 4.30 and 5.30 p.m., shortly after she left to get cigarettes for Vincent.

MR. and MRS. H. TYZACK . . . 60 years married

Credit Buying Cursed Him So He Quit Business at 39

A city man who retired at the age of 39 "because the credit system of my business almost wrecked my nervous system," today celebrated his 60th wedding anniversary here, as quick-witted and debonair as a man 20 years his junior.

The anniversary couple are Horace and Henrietta Tyzack, who will celebrate quietly in their tastefully furnished little home at 1009 Falkland Road. He is 81; she 79.

The credit system in his business, which he ran in England, interrupted his pleasant smile at the recollection.

"I ran a home furnishings establishment. And when you can't collect, and take back the furniture, you have only got driftwood in value."

The couple was married in a small church near London, and came to this country in 1921 after "making enough to live on, modestly."

The pair have had five houses in Victoria, and are now content in their present modest establishment.

"We hope to finish out here."

Their hobbies over the years have been gardening for Mrs. Tyzack, and music, "classical," and photography for her husband. Until a few years ago Mr. Tyzack was active in local camera clubs

Of music, he said though he preferred classics "I don't mind the popular stuff, such as from the shows, but I wouldn't buy any of it."

And if you had your life to live over again, would you do the same things Mr. Tyzack?

"Yes, but without the credit in my business."

ASK The TIMES

Q: Will you please tell me how Kangaroo Road in Sooke came to have that name?—F.G.M.

A: There is no material in the B.C. Archives at the Legislative Buildings disclosing any formal occasion long ago when it was dubbed that, hence it is impossible to say when the name first came into general use, but there is little doubt it grew gradually, as is the case with so many place names in Canada. No fossils of kangaroos or other marsupials of an earlier geologic age than the present Australian species have been found in Vancouver Island. This supports the local tradition that the name grew out of the many rises and falls and bends that vehicles encounter in traversing the road, somehow suggestive of the jumps of a kangaroo.

Q: What was the source of the name of Sudbury, Ont.—T.C.D.

A: The city now famous as the centre of Canada's great nickel industry was named in the winter of 1882-3 by James Worthington after Sudbury, Suffolk, England, the birthplace of his wife.

Zippered Carry-All Case Right Size for Small Jaunts

By PENNY SAVER

How many times have you hunted high and low for a paper bag "just the right size" for a skirt and sweater, and maybe a pair of shoes? You want to take them to a friends house for a quick change, or maybe you're going out after work and won't be able to get home to change. By the time you do find the paper bag, and the clothes are all bunched up together, you've got a full-scale pressing job ahead. I know, I've done it a dozen times. In my travels this a.m., I came across a little carry-all bag that is just what I need. It's just a little smaller than a regular overnight case, and has a zipper closing around the top edge. Open the lid, and there's a handy mirror. It's lined and has a solid plastic handle.

You can match your luggage with these handy little bags, 'cause there are two shades of cream, three shades of red, blue, green and maroon, two of tan and one grey. They're Canadian-made and cost only $3.95. These cases might be of interest to all you girls studying dancing. You can carry your shoes, dancing outfit, and still have room for other odds and ends. Very lightweight and compact.

On a completely different subject, but one of widespread interest is the next item. It's a Scrabble set, boxed neatly for storing. While the game is in process, you use the box to hold the letters. The $4.50 you invest in this game is put to good use, 'cause you'll have many hours of fun from it.

If you want a set of really distinctive salt and pepper shakers, you'll love the ones I found. The screw-on tops are made of mahogany, and the containers themselves are of heavy amber crystal. They're shaped like up-turned wine glasses and easily grasped. The cost? Only $3.75 a pair.

Once you have a piece or two of this amber crystal, you'll probably want more. It's so attractive and practical, that it's growing more and more popular.

* * *

As I examined the pieces of crystal and pottery in this shop, the salesman showed me a decanter with matching glasses, that, he says, are favorite wedding gifts. Once I saw them, I could certainly see why. The glasses would be little balls, except for the cut-across mouth opening. The decanter itself is perfectly round, with a straight neck. For a stopper, resting on the top of the neck is a ball of crystal that seals the opening, and gives a very clever effect to the whole set. The decanter is $8.50, while glasses are 85 cents each. Made in Holland by a famous Dutch company these are pieces that will be appreciated for many years.

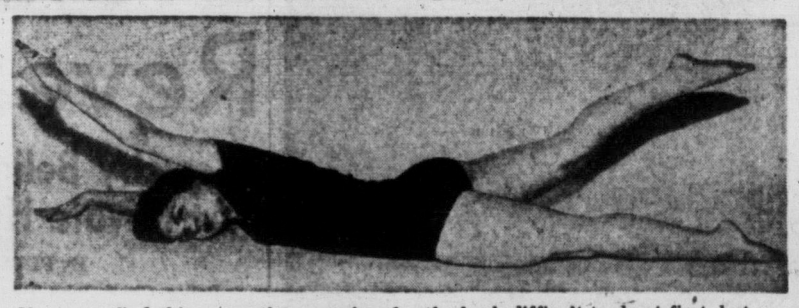
WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN



You may find this corrective exercise for the back difficult to do at first, but your muscles will become stronger.

Exercise Will Strengthen Your Weak Back Muscles

Many women write to ask how they can strengthen the muscles of their backs. It is true that weak back muscles can cause fatigue and backache and makes good posture practically impossible.

For instance, when a woman has had round shoulders for years her chest muscles will have shortened and her shoulder muscles will have lengthened and weakened because of habitually poor posture. The muscles of the back may have become so weak and those of the chest so short, that the individual will need help at first. It may be impossible for her to hold her chest up until she has worked with corrective exercises for some time.

Here are a few back exercises:

1. Stand tall. Make large circles with your arms, pulling back as your arms move sideward-downward.

2. Lie on the floor on your stomach, arms resting on the floor, in front of you. Lift the right arm and the left leg from the floor at the same time. Lower arm and leg. Lift the left arm and the right leg. Lower both to the floor. Continue, alternating.

3. Take the same starting position. Ask someone to hold your feet down to the floor. Lift both arms and your head and trunk up as far from the floor as possible. Hold a few moments and lower to the floor.

At first you may not be able to lift your arms and trunk at all, or a very little distance from the floor, but later on as your muscles become stronger you will improve.

Remember also to stay conscious of your posture during the day. Remind yourself many times when standing or walking or sitting to straighten your spine and pull your abdomen in and your hips under.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Back Talk," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 16 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

WOMEN IN PARLIAMENT

Labor Laws Are Her Job In Office Behind Scenes

By RUTH V. G. CAMPBELL

OTTAWA—Women holding key posts in Canada's federal civil service are few compared with the preponderance of men, but the number is greater than might be generally believed. In addition to the half-dozen or so whose posts bring them from time-to-time before the public eye, behind the bureaucratic scene, unpublicized and sometimes little known outside their own field, other women outstanding in their specialities are making their mark in the sometimes mundane but vital processes of federal government administration.

For instance, in a quiet corner of the Confederation building in Ottawa, heading the nine-strong staff of the Legislation Branch of the Department of Labor, is a soft-spoken Scandinavian from Saskatchewan, Edith Lorentsen, whose expert knowledge of labor laws extends not only to the statute books from Newfoundland to British Columbia, but throughout the countries of the world.

Canadian-born daughter of Danish parents ("I'm not a good Dane—I don't speak the language") Edith Lorentsen majored in English at the University of Saskatchewan and after secretarial experience in Saskatoon, in 1942 joined the wartime trek to Ottawa, and a Grade IV job in the civil service. Followed a five-month stint with National Selective Service in its hecticly busy heydey, before the quietly-efficient westerner transferred to the Labor Department proper.

From 1947 to 1949 Miss Lorentsen's duties lay with the "most interesting" new field of organizing the displaced persons who came to Canada in such numbers as domestic workers, making direct contacts with those many new Canadians in the government hostels established outside Montreal and Toronto. It was when the European influx was on the wane that she transferred to the Labor legislation branch, and in 1954 she became its very knowledgable head.

The scope of the legislation branch has widened greatly, recalls Edith Lorentsen, since the pioneering days of the late Margaret Mackintosh, sister of Principal W. A. Mackintosh of Queen's University, who prior to her retirement in 1952 had laid the foundations for the present firm liaison between the federal department and the representatives of the Canadian labor unions.

The branch's duty, its well-informed head points out, is not to promote labor laws, but to supply the facts of the case so that those interested may better make up their own minds on what should be undertaken.

She Summarizes All Labor Reports

It is to this end that the Labor Legislation Branch keeps in touch with labor law-making both at home and abroad, analyzing and condensing and preparing the reports which appear regularly in the monthly columns of the federal Labour Gazette.

At close of the legislative session of each province, a summary of its labor activities is prepared for publication in the Gazette, as are the federal bills which have been enacted during the annual sitting of Parliament.

Legislation of particular interest to women? . . . Isn't it all? parries the slender woman with the red-brown Scandinavian coloring and vivid dark eyes who brings to a complex and exacting job warmth and friendliness and a quiet sense of humor.

"Women look for laws of a special type—such as Ontario's minimum wage provisions—and sometimes they are inclined to think that no legislation affects them unless they are specifically mentioned, but actually a great deal of the general law-making applies to all workers."

Labor conferences, too, both Canadian and international are an important part of Edith Lorentsen's never-monotonous curriculum, and such widely-read pamphlets as "Fifty years of Labor Legislation in Canada," which she authored in collaboration with a colleague, Evelyn Woolner, bears the imprint of broad analytical study of her specialized field.

What does an expert in labor legislation do when she is not "laboring"? Like several other key civil servants of her sex, Miss Lorentsen takes pleasure in a house of her own in the Ottawa outskirts—and a garden where she wields deft green thumbs among the flowers and vegetables. A course in administrative law at Carleton College is "not a hobby but part of the job", "There's not much time for hobbies," she says rather ruefully—certainly not enough for all the books which are waiting to be read—but an interior decorating group of the Women's University Club is "fun" for a new and enthusiastic homeowner.

Travels West on New Train

Victoria's Mrs. R. W. Gibson was a first trip passenger aboard Canadian National Railways' new Super Continental leaving Toronto on its history making run last Sunday. Mrs. Gibson receives a corsage from M. E. Doke, CNR passenger traffic manager, just before the train pulled out for Vancouver, slashing 12 hours and 15 minutes from the old schedule. She is returning from Windsor, Ont., where she has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Murray Flock.

Early Victoria Hostesses Lived Again in a Unique Fashion Show

Four hundred members of the Women's Canadian Club of Victoria who crowded the ballroom at the Empress Hotel and overflowed into the writing room, Wednesday afternoon, were privileged to take a quick look back in time.

The occasion was the club's annual spring tea where, as a special feature, authentic gowns worn by some of the city's prominent women of earlier days were presented in a delightful fashion show.

As the commentator, James Nesbitt, well-known authority on the history of old-time Victoria, gave vivid word pictures of the different women whose gowns were presented, spicing his stories with humorous anecdotes that brought these pioneer Victorians to life for the audience.

The stage was arranged with baskets of bright spring flowers against a black velvet curtain. Models appeared in a huge gold and silver frame to pose while the commentator gave his story and then to step down from the platform and walk slowly through the audience.

GOWNS OF LONG AGO

The dignity of shimmering black satin and lace with touches of white at the throat and in the head-hugging bonnet, was shown in the gowns of Lady Amelia Douglas and Mrs. Robert Dunsmuir, presented by Mrs. T. H. Johns and Mrs. D. Turner, respectively. The startling beauty of crimson red velvet combined with black lace was to be seen in the beautiful gown of Mrs. O'Reilly, worn for the occasion by Mrs. R. H. Spilsbury. A peach-toned gown once worn by Miss Kathleen O'Reilly, a belle of a former day, was modeled by Mrs. Caroline Shiers.

The exquisite bridal gown worn by Mrs. Joseph Despard Pemberton was modeled by Miss Sheila MacDonald and a dashing magenta satin afternoon gown with bustled back and slight train, a feathered bonnet and small black lace parasol, worn by Mrs. Pemberton as a young matron, was modeled by Mrs. H. G. Ellis.

The black and white satin gown and long black and white feather boa of a popular young lady, Miss Martha Cheney — later Mrs. William Ella (who thought nothing of riding horseback to Esquimalt to dance the night through and then ride horseback home again) was shown by Mrs. Penty.

In complete contrast was the severely plain walking gown and mannish fedora hat of Miss Agnes Deans Cameron, early Victoria school teacher and author, presented by Mrs. C. Conway.

Mrs. Thomas Harris, wife of Victoria's first mayor, was portrayed by Mrs. Alex Young; Mrs. Robert Staines, Mrs. Elza Mayhew; Mrs. W. Trutch, Mrs. J. L. Muirhead; Lady Trutch, Mrs. Gordon Kennings; Mrs. Cridge, Mrs. Stewart Kenning; Mrs. Tolmie, Mrs. T. Cowley, and Lady Crease, Mrs. Johns.

In charge of the program was Mrs. R. D. Harvey, assisted by Mrs. A. Slocomb, Mrs. R. J. Davidson, Mrs. R. G. McKee and Miss Jessie Gordon.

The bride and groom received their public and high school education in Victoria. After joining the RCAF, they rose to ranks of corporal, Doreen in radar and Don in supply. Don is stationed at Dortmund, Germany, and Doreen at Langar. Following the ceremony good luck cables from Canada were read at the reception at the Airmen's lounge, RCAF Station Langar. The honeymoon commenced with two sunny days in London, continuing with a week in Paris and a visit to Italy. Residence overseas will be at Dortmund. The couple will return to Victoria to make their home in July or August of this year.

TORONTO (CP) — Miranda Coker, YWCA president from Sierra Leone in West Africa, a woman whose interests range from social work to dress designing, visited Toronto recently.

She is one of the 15 overseas delegates on a nine-month training course sponsored by the national board of the YWCA in the United States.

In Freetown, capital of the British protectorate, Miss Coker runs her own dressmaking shop employing a staff of six. She also does a great deal of designing.

Self-taught, dress designing came easily to her. "My grandfather was a tailor and I must have inherited some of his ability," she said.

But most of Miss Coker's free time is taken up with social and welfare work—all voluntary and connected with YWCA functions. This year the Y in Freetown celebrated its 40th year.

The Y in her country has to combat illiteracy and act as a bridge between women in town and city areas and the more backward interior, she said.

Women have the vote, she said, and two native women were recently elected to local government offices in Freetown. In the cities co-education is followed and women freely enter professions. But in the interior the position of women is still inferior. Tribesmen have several wives and marriages are arranged by families.

"There is no such thing as women's rights for them," Miss Coker said.

Is Gadget King Housewives' Friend?

NEWARK, N.J.—If the North American home-maker can scarcely fight her way through dinner preparation because of all the gadgets she's supposed to use, she has one man to blame for the majority of her woes.

That man, a 31-year-old businessman, is David Margulies of Newark. He thinks of himself as the "gadget king" or the "housewives' best friend," but many women wouldn't swear to the latter title.

Margulies' palace is a vortex for the whirlpool kitchen gadget industry. From it whirl dozens of garlic presses, potato bakers, French-fry slicers, food choppers, mincers, warmers, servers and only Margulies knows what else.

These labor-saving devices go out to local housewares stores and hardware mongers and by mail order. They eventually get tangled up with batches of other gadgets in the kitchen drawer.

Many are a real boon. The potato-baker, a sort of bed of spikes upon which a dinner's worth of potatoes are impaled, causes potatoes to bake evenly in less time.

Demon Margulies has invented and marketed an affair that slices a potato into French-fry slices in a trice.

Say the good wife has peeled the potatoes, preparatory to boiling them. Husband comes into the kitchen, seeks out the gadget he bought and in a few minutes has sliced enough potatoes for the American League on a hungry day.

Twenty-five French-fried potato slices come out of this gadget at one fell swoop. The slicer is one of the gadgets David Margulies makes to simplify and clutter up the lives of gimmick-loving North American kitchen-tenders.

The enslaved cook must then heat up the fat, blanch, fry, drain and warm the potatoes and then get rid of the boiling fat. Husband doesn't like French-fries that will anyway. They give him heartburn.

But he bought the gadget, so what can one do?

Margulies likes all this. He likes to sell labor-saving devices. After all, madame homemaker didn't have to slice the potatoes did she?

It all started at David Margulies' mother's knee. He saw her doing the commonplaces of homemaking and swore that his wife, which he didn't have yet, would never have to do these onerous tasks. Cooking would be fun.

Four years ago, he did get married and had to make his promise good.

His first item to ease pretty Mrs. Margulies' way into homemaking was the gourmet's dowry, the garlic press. He had heard about it from friends in Italy. There were none here.

So he brought the garlic press to the American shores.

A garlic press, for those who don't own one, looks like a doll's potato ricer. The garlic clove goes into the pot and gets mashed out in long odorous strings. Margulies has sold more than 1,500,000 garlic presses in less than three years.

As a consequence of the garlic press, the potato baker, the flame-tamer, the steam basket, the meat chopper and about 1,000 other items Margulies is a very rich man at 31.

And the North American home is cram full of little mechanical things.

Difficult for a Mother To Work and Keep House

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

No one will deny that it is a hard job for a man to earn enough to support a wife and children. However, it is not so easy for a woman to work to help her husband as this man suggests.

Hurlock

(Q)—"I do not agree with the advice you gave the woman whose husband puts his pleasures before his family's support. A wife should get out and get a job, too. She can't expect a man to pull the load alone. We have three children, but that doesn't stop my wife from helping out. A woman can't expect security for herself and her children if she expects the man to do all the work. Some women just marry so they will have a meal ticket. I'm not the only one who feels this way. I have talked to lots of men and women and they feel the same way."

(A)—I realize that it is hard for a man to earn enough to support a family and at the same time, build up a nest egg for future security. However, to be practical, how can a woman go out to work when there are children to be cared for?

When the children are old enough to take care of themselves and assist in the running of the home, then a wife can go out and get a job. However, unless she has help from every member of the family in running the home she could easily crack under the strain.

Expecting a woman with children young enough to need a mother's care to go out and work is expecting far too much. It is fair neither to the children nor to the mother. Turning over the care of the children to someone else is hard on the children and makes extra work for the mother as no two people handle children in the same way.

When a man marries, he should do so with the anticipation of shouldering the burden of supporting his wife and any children they may have. Later, he can expect some help from his wife, but certainly not while she is needed in the home.

3 Million Children In U.S. Schools Deaf

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—At least 3,000,000 school children in the United States have impaired hearing.

The American Hearing Society got the figure by applying the number of children with impaired hearing in certain tested areas to the total school population across the country.

If Johnny or May happens to live where hearing tests are not required, their deficiency might go undetected indefinitely. Billy was one of these. And his is a more or less typical case:

He was a shy, quiet child, of a large family. After scarlet fever at three Billy became even more reticent. Often he didn't respond to directions from his parents. His father thought Billy was disobedient and should be spanked.

JUST ABSENT-MINDED

"He's not a bad boy," his mother always would say. "It's just Billy's nature to be absent-minded. Maybe he'll outgrow it."

When Billy started to school he didn't play much with the other children. Once when he saw the teacher ask him a question he said timidly he hadn't heard her. She smiled at him reproachfully, said "How could you Billy? You weren't listening." After that he just shook his head that he didn't know the answer.

Billy lived in a state that left the problem of hearing tests up to the individual communities. When he was nine his town's school board decided to institute audiometer tests.

He was found to have a serious hearing impairment arising from an infection that didn't clear up after scarlet fever. With a hearing aid, Billy is at last able to hear everything said to him. There is hope, too, that proper medical care will improve his natural hearing.

Dr. Edmund Prince Fowler Sr., a specialist on hearing, says the mother is the logical person to notice impaired hearing.

A SIMPLE TEST

"And she should do it long before the child enters school. All she'd have to do is put him in the next room and speak to him and see if he acts like other children. Then she'd know. But some parents won't face it."

Dr. Fowler helped invent the audiometer more than 30 years ago. Here are some tests he suggests for mothers to use in simple home checks every few months.

1. Does your baby react to sudden noises like a telephone ringing, a door banging, loud clapping of hands, dogs barking? He should, with normal hearing.

2. Does your baby react if you suddenly come into his line of vision, as if he hasn't heard you enter the room? This would indicate impaired hearing.

3. Is he learning to talk normally and is his voice natural? Children learn to talk from hearing others talk. If they can't hear properly, they obviously won't be able to talk properly either.

"Children can develop hearing difficulties from whooping cough, mumps, colds, meningitis, even certain infections before the child is born," says Dr. Fowler. "Doctors can do a lot to prevent this if they're up to snuff and know their business."

Belgian Students Protest Reforms

NAMAR, Belgium (Reuters)—Roman Catholic students, in protest against proposed reforms in the school system including cuts in subsidies to Catholic schools, let loose dozens of white mice and hundreds of flies in a hall near here Tuesday night when two cabinet ministers were speaking on the program.

Local Groups Asked To Ottawa UN Talks

Forty Canadians who have been posted abroad with the Colombo plan and other United Nations assistance programs have been invited to participate in the National Conference on Canadian Aid to Underdeveloped Countries in Ottawa, May 27-28.

The conference, sponsored by the United Nations Association in Canada, will be opened by Foreign Affairs Minister Lester Pearson and will consist, in addition to major addresses, of four round-table discussions in which Canadian experts who have worked in the Middle East, Far East, Central and South America will take part.

Thirty national organizations including business, labor, church, service, women's, veterans, farm, educational, and other groups have offered their co-operation and agreed to participate in the proceedings of the conference. The national organizing committee, which consists of individuals prominent in all these fields as well as leading members of Parliament, is inviting national and local organizations to send representatives to the conference at Ottawa.

Fisheries Minister James Sinclair of North Vancouver will be chairman of one of the round-table discussions, and among the main speakers will be Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, former Canadian ambassador, deputy minister, now director-general of the UN technical assistance program; R. G. Cavell, Canada's Colombo Plan administrator, and Escott Reid, Canadian high commissioner in India.

Sabotage Claim On PGE Track Discounted Here

Provincial government officials today scoffed at reports of sabotage on the main line of the PGE through the residential district of West Vancouver.

They said they are "concerned" at reports of damaged equipment, uprooted survey stakes, and theft of tools, but that it is probably the work of teen-aged hoodlums.

Construction company officials blame adults for the vandalism. West Vancouver Police Sergent Frank Colpitts said children could be held responsible for some of the damage, but that "I know some people who are so incensed with the railroad coming through that they might attempt sabotage."

PGE officials said the damage reports have been "very much exaggerated," and that they have found nothing but co-operation from West Van residents.

BRIDGE LESSON

By Oswald Jacoby

North and South probably stretched a bit when they got to four hearts with today's hand. Part of the trouble was that they couldn't be sure of beating three spades, so that the bid of four hearts was bid partly as a sacrifice and partly as a "make."

West opened the king of diamonds and continued the suit until South ruffed the third round. The average declarer would have gone down quietly by drawing trumps and losing two club finesses, but the actual declarer was Ralph Hirschberg of New York, one of the country's great players. Ralph gave West credit for all of the missing high cards because of his double and jump raise in spades. The problem was to make the game in hearts even if West held both of the missing high clubs.

After brief thought, Hirschberg saw the solution. He led his singleton spade and finessed dummy's queen. This "unnecessary" finesse seems to do no good, but it had a real point.

Declarer continued with the ace of spades and a spade ruff in his own hand. This play cleaned out the spades from the dummy. Hirschberg then drew trumps with the ace and king, after which he led a club from the dummy and finessed the jack to West's queen.

At this stage there was nothing for West to do. If he returned a club, South would get a free finesse. If West returned a spade or a diamond, South could ruff while dummy discarded the losing club. In any case, the contract was quite safe. If declarer hadn't cleaned out the spades, however, West could have returned a spade safely, and then South would have been forced to lose another club sooner or later.

NEW MUSICAL REVUE MAKES C-4 DEBUT AT 11.30 TONIGHT

THE CBC'S television production of "Hamlet' has drawn raves from eastern critics.

It is scheduled to be shown here via Channel 2, Sunday, at 10 p.m.

Indeed the accolades are a happy omen. Mayhaps this column will be able to sing high praises of the CBC players. All too often in the past few weeks we have felt called upon to take them to task for their mediocre showings in drama, comedy and musical revues.

It is a much happier feeling to be able to write nice things, especially when they are about your own.

Let's back them up by viewing it. "Hamlet" lasts two hours.

* * *

SINCERELY HOPE you didn't miss the Bob Hope show Tuesday evening.

As far as we were concerned, the comedian was a "casualty" of the time shift from standard to daylight saving time. Nowhere was he listed in the schedules received from Channel 4. Western Marshall was scheduled and below it a program "to be announced." Obviously, at the last moment, Mr. Hope turned up in place of Western Marshall and took over the "to be announced" spot as well.

He was excellent. He did, among other things, a take off of Ralph Edwards' "This Is Your Life." Central figure was Lassie and from behind the famed curtain came his pals, all dogs, of course, dressed fantastically as boys and girls.

Said Ralph Edwards, himself coming through the curtain at the end of the program: "This Is Your Lawsuit."

* * *

IN THE FUTURE, at least until the time changes have settled down as far as programing is concerned, it may be wise if we dialed in on the "to be announced" spots just to make sure we are not missing something really worth while.

28L STOVES and FURNACES

YOU HAVE HEARD, "I WOULDN'T like an oil range because it's smoky and dirty." The reason for talking like this is that the person in question never had a good range. To have a "good" range you must have one of the finest made. Consult an expert who can advise you on its operation. If the article is good and you don't know how to operate it—it is no good. Consult Eagle Sales, 1016 Fort. 2-3923.

A DOCTOR EXPLAINS

What Your Pains Mean

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ
Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic
And Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

This is a different sort of medical series in that Dr. Alvarez not only describes the origin and meaning of many of your pains, but he also takes you, the reader, into his office and shows you how the internist's mind works as he tries to make a diagnosis and as he handles difficult patients.

HANDLING THE NERVOUS PATIENT

Often I hurry on to point out to a woman that nervousness is not necessarily a term of opprobrium. It can be taken as a compliment. Most people who have done big things in the arts and sciences have been nervous and neurotic. They had to be to sense things as keenly as they did.

And if a woman is to have any vivacity and social charm she must be nervous and highly sensitive. Without these qualities she cannot be wide-awake and responsive and interested in people and in everything that is going on about her; without it her face will not be mobile and attractive, her eyes will not light up, and her conversation will not be animated. But it is just this ability to feel keenly and react strongly that commonly brings in its train fatigue and suffering.

MEDICAL GLOSSARY

Functional — A functional disease or pain is one for which the physician cannot find any visible abnormality.

Organic — An organic disease is one in which the physician can find an ulcer or a tumor or something clearly wrong.

Often, as I talk to nervous persons, trying to get them to see what I mean by "functional disease," I reiterate that, whatever the cause is, it is not something that could be found and removed if a surgeon were to explore the abdomen.

Drawing on His Own Experience

In trying to convince patients that constant anxiety can cause symptoms suggesting the presence of organic disease, I often remind them of a well-known fact: Acute spasms of fear can produce distressing symptoms. Why then shouldn't anxiety, which is only chronic fear, cause similar disturbances?

I sometimes tell a patient of my own painful experience when, in the dread influenza year of 1918, one of my children came down with a severe type of penumonia which I knew was likely to end fatally within a few days. When fear seized me it seemed as if someone were twisting my stomach until it hurt; distressing waves kept coming up the esophagus to almost strangle me, it was hard to swallow food, and I was in such distress that I could not rest. Only when the child began to show signs of conquering the infection did I get better.

HUNCH PROVED RIGHT

Shortly afterward when I saw a man who complained of symptoms similar to mine, I asked him if he wasn't worried about something. He denied it, but later I saw in the paper that he was suspected of complicity in the looting of a trust company, and was facing arrest and indictment. Then I knew that my hunch had been correct.

Sometimes I tell a patient of the great losses of weight that I often see produced by worry, homesickness, or marital infelicity. Many a patient has to be reminded of these things several times before he can be made to admit even the possibility that the symptoms which are bothering him are functional in nature.

I often tell a nervous woman that I would rather have a broken leg than what she has; the pain of a broken leg could be relieved by drugs, and after two months in a cast I would probably be well. But if I had a nervous breakdown, as she has, drugs would not long relieve my distress, if they relieved it at all, and two months of rest might not take me very far toward recovery.

Monday: Constitutional Frailness. What can the doctor do about people who are always weak and tired and full of pain? Will surgery and treatment of their many symptoms ever really help these constitutionally frail people?

Big Industry Boom Enjoyed By Hong Kong

HONG KONG (UP) — The number of persons in this refugee-jammed British colony who are employed by local industries has more than doubled since 1950.

A government survey said the sharp jump was due to a 40 per cent increase in the number of registered industrial firms. Exports of locally made goods, for instance, account for some 30 per cent of the colony's trade, compared to one per cent before the Second World War.

The magazine, Far Eastern Economic Review, in commenting on the government statistics, said:

"About 92,000 persons were employed by 1,752 factories and workshops at the end of 1950, and these figures increased to 111,879 by the end of September, 1954. Besides, there were about 100,000 persons engaged in unregistered workshops.

"New industrial developments during 1954 included the establishment of a large flour mill and the manufacture of aluminum hand torch cases by the cold extrusion process," the Review said, adding:

NO CUSTOM DUTY

"At the recent exhibition of Hong Kong products, more than 50 kinds of new and improved products of 46 factories were displayed. The most notable ones were electric clocks, biscuit making machine, refractory blocks, air-conditioning equipment, steel wire ropes, waterproof watch cases, safes, detergents, 'stretch' type nylon socks and shirts.

"The outlook for Hong Kong industries is reasonably bright. So far there has been not too much difficulty in getting raw materials.

"As a free port, no customs duty is paid in Hong Kong on imported raw materials or the export of industrial products. Besides, the rate of income tax levied in Hong Kong is much lower than in Britain, the United States and Japan. In other words, manufacturing costs are lower than in many countries.

"Wage rates for employees in Hong Kong are much lower than those prevailing in Europe and America and not higher than those in Japan and Southeast Asia. On the whole, machinery and equipment of Hong Kong factories are more advanced than those of factories in Indonesia, Burma and Thailand."

Canadians Rough On Rugger Tourists

LONDON (AP)—A combined Oxford and University Rugby Union team arrived home Tuesday from a six-week tour of the United States and Canada with more than memories. Four members of the team had broken noses and two sported fractured collar bones.

Ian Beer, captain of the English team, said: "United States rugby is strongly influenced by their football. The Americans have little experience of the game, but what they lack in experience they make up in enthusiasm."

School Urged, Not Jail, for Poor Drivers

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Traffic engineering specialists believe that habitual traffic violators should be sent to school rather than to jail.

A recent study of 300 persons who averaged six violations each in a single year showed they were just as intelligent, just as normal and had the same amount of respect for law as good drivers.

But the one big difference, according to Dr. Harry Case of the University of California here, was that the bad drivers were victims of bad driving habits.

Case, who is on the staff of the Institute of Transportation and Traffic Engineering at UCLA, said that of the 300 habitual violators studied, 90 per cent of them were men, mostly skilled or semi-skilled workers or white collar workers.

The institute's study showed that intelligence and personality evaluations were normal and that "in general, their respect for the law is apparently about the same as that of the average driver," Case said.

And yet, Case said, "the group had an average of six violations each during 12 months." He added that "of these, 76 per cent were moving violations such as running a red traffic light or speeding."

Case said the study indicated that "proper training instead of punishment" would do more to eliminate bad habits.

Wheat Crisis Feared

LIVERPOOL, Eng. (Reuters)—Corn Trade News, journal of the British grain trade, says today it envisages a "world crisis in wheat" and claims that export prospects for the United States, Canada and Australia for the next crop year seem dim.

Icebergs are most frequent in the north Atlantic from April to June, after breaking off the Arctic ice barriers.

THE LYONS' DEN

Wandering Victorians Find Adventure on Broad Highway

In a trailer he had designed for the purpose C. P. Lyons of Victoria, his wife and young daughter, Susan, recently left Victoria headed for Mexico and way points. The idea of the trailer was for carefree travel, side trips to any attractions off the beaten track. Mr. Lyons is writing a series of articles for the Victoria Daily Times on their gypsy-like adventures as they head for Mexico.

By C. P. LYONS

Off to Mexico and just as happy as if it were normal! With the many difficulties of the past month still prominent in mind how could the future bring anything but promise? After an initial state of bliss lasting for almost 15 minutes we began to grow exceedingly suspicious of this futuristic state.

Months of random thought had gone into wondering about the best type of rig to allow care-free travel on back country roads. It would have to accommodate three people—one a small child.

Finally the idea "jelled." A house on a truck, no less. Finance companies' advertising took on a new significance. The plunge was made and work started.

WEEKS OF WAITING

The greatest frustration of all arose over special trailer equipment ordered from Los Angeles. Week after week the wait went on. One kept asking himself if this wasn't the renowned age of speed and progress. Weren't there super highways, super-powered freight trucks, super quick supply houses? A club-footed mule could have shuffled the whole way carrying all the goods in the 5 weeks that went by. Another 20th century myth shattered!

Building a new Point Ellis Bridge couldn't have raised more problems than this enlarged 6'X9' piano box. Every inch of space was planned, argued, and re-arranged time and time again.

People acquainted with a spacious bathroom of 5'x7' might suspicion that one measuring 18"x26" is a bit on the small side. Tests conducted by the construction crew confirmed the thought. It had to be enlarged to a bounteous 18"x28". This will take care of everyone except those with bunions on their knees or curvature of the spine. A stove, icebox and sink take up less than four feet of floor space if they are piled right.

RIGHT UP TO FERRY TIME

Careful attention to planning brought a halt to the frantic construction just two hours before ferry time. Similar attention to small detail saw the aluminum monster arrive at the "Chinook" fully three minutes before sailing time. No tickets! No vehicle permit! No custome declaration for the shiny U.S. stove and propane tanks! In a masterpiece of combined strategy and courtesy the harassed U.S. and Canadian officials quickly brought order out of panic. We wheeled aboard the Chinook in grand style and promptly demolished one roof signal light on the superstructure Years of driving a car set up a scale of distances that don't apply in any way to an overburdened truck.

The inquiring U.S. customs inspector aboard ship visibly recoiled from the deluge of boxes, packsacks, animal traps, spare car parts and much etc. being dumped out on an acre of car deck. Then like pack rats at work we dragged it back in the den to store in the many well-designed and spacious cupboards—so we thought.

Entry to the first 10 feet of Yankee soil was accompanied by an ominous bang in the box. Through the rear truck window we could see the door of the dish cupboard swung wide open and the curious dishes doing a perilous dance on the threshhold.

AND MORE TROUBLE

Apart from the curious antics these lovely nylon friction catches can perform they are definitely taboo in a trailer. A cupboard will suddenly pop open, then a typewriter case gradually inches out to the centre of the floor and the door will go closed again with a satisfied snap. The first day out the unfastened full-length door mirror waltzed out of its temporary lodging in the bathroom and fell flat on its pretty face. The frame may come in handy for propping other cupboard doors shut.

For some unaccountable reason all books on pioneering a new phase of living are loaded with humor. I'll bet they are written at least five years after the events. When you hook up your prized six-volt light system the first night and find it won't work; when the dishes don't fit their cupboard; when two gallons of muddy slop comes through a hole in the wheel well and soaks all the carefully laundered holiday clothes; when the roof vent above the bed does double duty as a shower in the middle of the night, it's very, very humorous. Ask me about it five years from now.

FINDING OUT HARD WAY

These minor tragedies don't mean the mobile home is a flop by any means. It's just a case of finding the "bugs" the hard way. Theoretical planning is okay up to a point but it takes actual experience to make them workable.

Susan, two years and eight months old and one of the prime reasons for the "Lyons Den," has adapted herself wonderfully well. Coming out with me the first night to lock up the truck she looked at the heavens and exclaimed in childhood's wealth of unsuspected knowledge, "Oh, daddy, look at the stars plastered all over the sky!" Then greeted the dawn next morning with the startling remark, "mommy, what's a dear departed donkey?" We suddenly remembered the new picture books given her by neighbors and quickly mulled over in the confusion of the previous evening.

The beautiful Oregon coast is so foggy and wet you can't tell ocean from land. We "heaved to" for the night on a high bluff overlooking the ocean and pitched and tossed in the nightlong gale like a small boat on the billows.

Wonder what repulsive problems the dust of Mexico will bring?

BONNER

Howard Green, veteran Vancouver Conservative member of Parliament, told the federal and British Columbia governments today to "stop fighting" and cooperate in the development of the Columbia River power potential.

He made the statement after B.C. Attorney-General Robert W. Bonner had clashed sharply with Federal Resources Minister Jean Lesage and Liberal members of the Commons committee on external affairs. The argument centred on whether provincial authorities had kept Ottawa officials informed of their dealing with the Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Company.

Bonner appeared before the committee to oppose a government bill that would take control of improvements on international rivers away from the province. He also defended the province's agreement with Kaiser for the damming of the Columbia near Castlegar, B.C., to store water for downstream hydro-electricity production in the United States.

"WRONG IMPRESSION"

He charged the committee had been "left with a wrong impression" in earlier testimony. So far, he said, British Columbia had only an interim agreement with the Kaiser people and no license to the firm had been issued.

He also complained that the impression had been given in earlier committee session that the province had not kept federal officials informed of the progress of negotiations with the Kaiser engineers. This also was "a wrong impression," he said.

Bonner tabled, at the request of David Croll (L-Toronto-Spadina), a number of letters between Lands and Forests Minister R. E. Sommers, and a copy of an engineering report prepared by Kaiser consulting engineers which he said already had been supplied to the federal government.

KEPT INFORMED

"In our view the appropriate agency of the government was kept fully advised of the events that surrounded our consideration of these plans," Bonner said.

He said Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, chairman of the International Joint Commission, had been told in November, 1953, that the Kaiser company had made a proposal. In the spring of that year Kaiser officials met twice with McNaughton, and in June they had a lengthy conference with him "at the express suggestion of the province of British Columbia."

CONFIDENTIAL MEMO

Bonner said he received a long, confidential memorandum from McNaughton's office summarizing these talks. He hesitated to offer it as evidence.

LeSage told the committee the memorandum was confidential at the request of the Kaiser officials.

"I have been instructed that the Kaiser corporation has no objections," Bonner said.

A short time later Lesage told the committee Gen. McNaughton's office had no objections. It was agreed to table the lengthy documents as soon as copies could be obtained.

PART OF MEMO

Croll and Lesage both asked Bonner if he had been told by any federal official that the Arrow Lakes plan would have to fit into the development of the Columbia basin as a whole. Bonner objected that the question dealt with information in the memorandum, which was not yet before the committee.

Later he said the answer was "contained in the memorandum."

"I will not attempt to interpret it, or put any gloss on it as Mr. Croll has done," he said.

Croll asked if the province had been warned by any federal agency that the Kaiser plan was "putting a noose around the neck of future British Columbia development." This, too, Bonner said, was "an interpretation."

WON'T INTERFERE

Bonner told Green the agreement between the Kaiser firm and the province "would not in any way interfere with the maximum co-operation between the federal and provincial governments in the development of British Columbia."

"There is in the agreement specific opportunities for that co-operation," he added.

World Traveler, Mrs. Rickard, Dies in City

Funeral services were held this afternoon for Mrs. Marguerite Lydia Rickard, prominent society matron and world traveler, who had made Victoria her home for nearly 25 years. She died Sunday at age 77. She had been ill for some time.

Mrs. Rickard was active in many community groups, including the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, the B.C. Historical Association, IODE, and Royal Jubilee Hospital. She was interested also in various garden groups, and musical and theatrical endeavors.

SINGER, PIANIST

She was gifted as a singer and pianist.

Born in Ainbarbar, Algeria, where her father was employed as a mining engineer, she was educated in Berkeley, Calif., where an uncle, Tom Rickard, was one-time mayor.

She was married in 1898 in Denver, Col., to her cousin, Dr. Thomas A. Rickard, also a mining engineer. Together they traveled about the world. Before coming to Victoria they made their home in many places, staying longest in London, Eng., and Berkeley, Calif.

Dean P. R. Beattie officiated at today's service at Christ Church Cathedral. Interment followed at Royal Oak Burial Park.

Mrs. Rickard is survived by one son, Dr. John Forbes Rickard in Los Gatos, Calif.; two grandsons, Forbes and Paul; one sister, Miss Nina Belle Rickard, living in England; a niece, Miss Elizabeth May, Victoria, and two nephews, John R. May and Henry F. May, both in California.

Two Asphyxiated By Gas in Hotel

MONT JOLI, Que. (CP)—Two persons were asphyxiated and three others overcome by fumes Tuesday night when gas from a leaking connection filled a small hotel in the nearby parish of St. Moise. Dead are Donat Falardeau, 68, the proprietor, and Jeannine Nadeau, 20, a hotel employee.

IN PROTEST AGAINST USE OF DOGS

Ailing Anti-Vivisectionist Offers Body for Research

WINNIPEG (CP)—A partially-blind Winnipeg woman, protesting the use of dogs in medical research, has offered her body to the University of Manitoba for experimental surgery.

Mrs. T. L. Bowers made the offer at a meeting of the city council Monday night.

"I mean every word of it," she told the councillors. "Let them do vivisection to me. I offer myself for the first experiment and am ready to pack my bags to go to the hospital."

Mrs. Bowers, a member of the Winnipeg branch of the Theosophical Society, recently gave away her seeing-eye dog to a blind person and now is having another trained for her.

She appeared at the council meeting with two other delegations to object to a recommendation by the public health committee that unclaimed dogs in the city pound be turned over to the university for use in medical experiments.

Council deferred final decision for two weeks to allow the health committee time to consider a report by the poundkeeper on the city's stray dog population.

Request for the stray dogs was made a month ago by Dr. H. H. Saunderson, university president. Since then various anti-vivisectionist organizations have beseiged city council by pamphlet and telephone.

One suggestion made earlier this month to the health committee was that long-term convicts be allowed to volunteer for the medical experiments to gain remission from sentence.

Dr. L. G. Bell, dean of medicine, defending the university's request for the dogs and their vivisection, denied that dogs were treated cruelly during experiments.

"Advances in medical science are not stumbled upon. They are the result of long and careful research . . . Millions owe a debt to these animals."

Columbia Diversion Too Costly?

OTTAWA (BUP)—Diversions of Kootenay River waters into the Columbia and of the Columbia waters into the Fraser appear too costly to be practical, A. F. Paget, British Columbia comptroller of water rights, said today.

He told a Commons committee the diversion would "obliterate" the economy of the upper Kootenay Valley.

The plan has been suggested by Federal Engineers. Paget told the committee his department had made only a preliminary survey of the economic impact.

But he said the plan would wipe out 126 miles of railroad track, highways, farms and industries and a number of villages.

"It would obliterate the economy from Golden, to the point of diversion (near Canal Flats)," he said.

Revelstoke, would involve a 20-mile tunnel 50 feet in diameter.

Preliminary studies indicated, he said, that the cost of producing power in that plan would be $500 per installed horse power.

"And we consider that excessive," he told the committee.

But he said this figure might be modified by later studies.

U.S. 'HASTE' ON CHOU OFFER BLAMED FOR PRISONER DELAY

TOKYO (UP)—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-N.Y.) said today the blunt initial United States reaction to Chou En-lai's Formosa negotiations offer blocked early release of 11 American airmen.

Powell said that Chou offered to release the fliers "almost immediately" the U.S. acts friendly and well disposed" toward his proposal to negotiate directly on the Formosa issue.

The state department made a "too hasty reply" the congressman said.

Blob of Blood to Save Dr. Sam From Noose?

CLEVELAND (UP) — A blob of blood and other "new evidence" may win a new trial for convicted wife-murderer, Dr. Samuel Sheppard.

Judge Edward N. Blythin will decide next Wednesday whether Sheppard is entitled to a new trial.

The "new evidence" was obtained by Dr. Paulkirk, criminologist at the University of California.

He reported that a blood spot on the wardrobe door in the murder room did not match the blood either of Dr. Sheppard or his slain wife.

He said other evidence indicated the killer was left-handed and that he used a weapon not more than 12 inches long, possibly a flashlight.

The position of the clothing on the body of Mrs. Sheppard, according to Dr. Kirk's report, indicated the attacker intended a sexual assault but lost his temper when Mrs. Sheppard bit his hand. He said the bite was strong enough to draw blood and probably accounted for Mrs. Sheppard's broken teeth.

Bonner Asks Ottawa Aid On Mica Creek Dam Plan

B.C. Power Board 'Interested' in Massive Project

OTTAWA (BUP)—Both American and Canadian private concerns have expressed interest in building the proposed $247,000,000 Mica Creek dam on the upper Columbia River, B.C. Attorney-General Robert W. Bonner said today.

Bonner said the B.C. Power Commission also was interested in building the dam and he "believed it would be a proper agency to undertake that development."

But he said federal co-operation, either in the form of grants or low-interest loans, would be necessary. He also said federal-provincial co-operation would be needed to get industrial users for the power the dam would create.

Bonner told the Commons committee on external affairs that the technical evidence would permit the project to "go ahead now." He said the province was anxious to have Mica Creek and the Arrow Lakes storage plan pushed ahead.

But for the Mica Creek dam, he said, there were "economic factors yet to be settled." Markets for the large blocks of power would have to be found. He said industries that would give at least primary processing to British Columbia's strategic metals should be brought into the province to use the power.

He told the committee he feared a government bill to license improvements on international rivers would have the effect of "ruling the B.C. Power Commission off the Columbia."

Eden Willing To Hold Talks With Bulganin

Says East-West Tension Easing

LONDON (UP) — Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden said today he is hopeful a meeting with Russia can be arranged "shortly" to discuss east-west problems.

He also declared, "I am perfectly ready to meet Marshal Bulganin."

At the same time, Eden said Britain is ready to assist in talks between the United States and Communist China on the Formosa crisis.

Eden told the House of Commons that recent moves on German rearmament and an Austrian state treaty had brought a meeting with the Soviets closer.

"We have been agreed that before there can be useful talks with Soviet Russia, the Paris agreements must be ratified and progress made with the Austrian treaty," Eden stated.

"Now, fortunately, there has been progress with both these matters," he added.

UNITY BOLSTERED

This advance, Eden said, is "no accident but the logical outcome of Allied policy in building up the unity of the west."

Then Eden made his statement on the proposed meeting with Kremlin leaders.

"As a result of the recent progress, the way is now clear as far as we are concerned. We are ready and anxious to explore with the Soviet government the possibility of reaching agreement on all outstanding matters between east and west.

Cloud Seeding Brings Floods Declares World's Top Rainmaker

BY BILL RICHARDSON

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) —The man who pioneered the science of making rain believes armed forces experiments may have caused the disastrous Missouri Valley flood of June, 1952.

Dr. Irving Langmuir, a Nobel Prize winner and consultant for General Electric Co. experiments with rainmaking, also declared in an interview:

1. A United States Air Force test on a tornado off the eastern coast Oct. 17, 1947, may have turned the twister off its course and pushed it into Savannah, Ga., with damage of $5,000,000.

2. There is evidence that rainmaking in some areas may create drought in others.

Langmuir was interviewed while attending the international arid land symposium where scientists from 18 countries are seeking answers to the rapidly growing arid regions which already cover a third of the earth's land surface.

WANTED TO STOP

He declared that he thinks now—and insisted at the time—that a single silver-iodide generator operating at Alamogordo, N.M., caused the steady downpours which drowned the Missouri valley three years ago.

"We had been seeding for some time, and the storms kept getting bigger and better. I told them (the military heads administering the project) that I felt we ought to stop seeding as the rains in the Missouri valley kept falling.

"But the administrator of the project was on vacation at the time. No one would take responsibility for ordering the seeding stopped.

"Finally I told them we must stop, things were getting serious.

"We stopped on July 2. On July 7 the flood just about devastated Omaha."

Langmuir explained how a lone cloud-generator in New Mexico could affect the weather so far away: The silver iodide particles are sent into the air, say, in New Mexico. Winds from the west blow them across the Mississippi, where they come in contact with moist air masses coming in from the gulf of Mexico.

TRIGGERS OTHERS

A particle of silver iodide about the size of a pencil dot is enough to affect a cubic mile of air weighing 100,000,000 tons, Langmuir said. Once a storm has been started, it triggers other storms. And if the cloud seeder is restarted at intervals, you get rain at about the same intervals.

Langmuir also said that on Oct. 17, 1947, an air force plane seeded a tornado heading north off the east coast. The twister turned 120 degrees "which the weather bureau said was impossible" and smashed on to Savannah.

"There was not one chance in 7,000 that the tornado would have turned if it had not been seeded," Langmuir said. "I had suggested that we wait until the storm was farther north and out to sea to experiment."

CANADA ADOPTS CONTROL

No 'Impure' Vaccine Here

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

Canada's "rigid controls" of every phase of manufacture make it "almost impossible" for impure Salk vaccine to reach Canadian children.

Federal health officials at Ottawa acted today to reassure Canadian parents following a U.S. government ban against use of vaccine manufactured by Cutter Laboratories of Berkeley, Calif. Canada doesn't use the Cutter vaccine, and there'll be no stoppages in the nationwide inoculation campaign.

The U.S. ban was "a precautionary measure" because one child died and at least nine—possibly 11 — suffered paralysis from polio after receiving Cutter vaccine. U.S. government experts say they don't think the cutter vaccine was responsible, but they want to be absolutely sure.

APPEAL TO PARENTS

Meanwhile, health authorities in the U.S. and Canada are urging parents and local health authorities to go ahead with any planned inoculations with Salk vaccine.

Dr. Leonard A. Scheele, U.S. surgeon-general, personalized the issue by announcing his seven-year-old son will be inoculated shortly in the Washington, D.C., program.

At Ottawa, an aide of Minister of Health Paul Martin said most of the vaccine in use in Canada at present—amounting to treatment for between 600,000 and 700,000 children—was produced by the Connaught Laboratories at the University of Toronto. The Institute of Microbiology at Montreal is the other Canadian producer.

The official did not know how much vaccine had been sold in Canada by two American companies, Eli Lilly and Parke Davis—licensed by Canada, but it was not thought to be a great deal. They account for about 60 per cent of the U.S. national production.

Victoria MHO Warns Against Delaying Shots

Victoria-Esquimalt medical-health officer, Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffey, today warned parents that it would be dangerous to lose faith in Salk vaccine because of reports from California that six inoculated children had contacted polio.

"People must understand that this is polio season," she said. No one should slacken their effort in obtaining immunization for their youngsters as the vaccine becomes available."

She pointed out that "five or six out of 50,000 is a very small average — and those children probably were infected before inoculation."

LITTLE REACTION

Dr. Mahaffey said that in Victoria and Esquimalt the health department has almost completed administering second dosage of the vaccine.

A careful check of reactions showed that one child developed a sore throat but this later was diagnosed as scarlet fever. Two children had a slight rash on their arms after the injections, one complained of soreness. None were ill in any way.

Polio usually becomes more severe with the warmer weather. It is almost at its peak at present in the area where the outbreak was reported. Health officials are anxious that every child who can be inoculated, receive his three shots promptly.

Saigon Fighting Kills 150

Absent Emperor Calls Parley

By LOUIS GUILBERT
United Press Correspondent

SAIGON, Indo-China (UP)—The bloodiest battle of Free Viet Nam's swelling civil war raged in the streets of Saigon today.

At least 150 government troops loyal to American-backed Premier Ngo Oinh Diem were killed. At least 300 more were wounded.

Casualties among the rebellious Binh Xuyen sect of former river pirates were not known. The Binh Xuyen, who have controlled both vice and the police force in Saigon, have sworn to overthrow the premier.

PEACE CONFERENCE

In a surprise move, absentee Chief of State Bao Dai sent a cable from his villa on the French Riviera calling both sides to a peace conference at Cannes on May 5.

An entire quarter of thatched huts housing refugees from the Communist-controlled north went up in flames.

Screams of the trapped victims rose above the din of artillery and the sound of machineguns.

POLICE CHIEF FIRED

Immediate cause of the trouble was the dismissal of the Saigon police chief Lai Van Sang, a leader of the Binh Xuyen.

The fighting flared when Binh Xuyen troops, barricaded in the Petrusky high school, opened fire on a passing government convoy.

MAJOR ATTACK

Gen. Le Van Vie, the rebel commander, then unloosed a major attack on Saigon police headquarters.

Vie's forces also shelled the premier's palace-residence with mortars. Meanwhile government forces set fire to rebel gasoline stores in suburban Cholon.

The French promptly moved in and obtained a temporary cease-fire. But 80 minutes later, artillery firing started again. Smoke covered the city. Women, children and men refugees from the Communist-controlled north were in panic.

AMERICANS SAFE

Hundreds of Americans with military, economic and other missions previously had been ordered out of danger and were presumed to be safe.

Government and rebel forces agreed to the second cease-fire of the day at 5 p.m.

But tonight the government launched an all out counterattack which seemed aimed at completely destroying the rebel forces.

Local Rain-Making Affecting Weather?

Generator Operator Says Iodide Plants On Island Improvement on Early Models

Belief that this spring's below-par weather can be blamed on rain-making was discounted today by John Walser, meteorologist operating the silver iodide plants on Vancouver Island.

A statement by Dr. Irving Langmuir, world's top rainmaker, that he believed silver iodide experiments had caused floods, brought a reply from Mr. Walser that the New Mexico generators were engaged in down-wind seeding.

"The 1952 experiments were aimed at checking down-wind effect, and generators were not always operated just when it was desirable to induce rain in an immediate area," he said.

Mr. Walser has charge of the operation of six silver iodide generators on the west coast. His firm is under contract to the B.C. Power Commission to increase the precipitation on the Campbell River watershed, heighten the snow pack and try to avert a brown-out threat caused by depletion of John Hart development reservoirs.

"My organization operates its generators only when we know that the silver iodide will be utilized in a specific target area in close proximity to the generators," he said. "The practice discribed by Dr. Langmuir in the 1952 experiment is what we now call 'indiscriminate' seeding."

"The Yucca Flat atom bomb test that has been postponed so often is being delayed by meteorologists until they can be sure the 'fall-out' will be within the test area. We do the same with a 'fall-out' of rain," he said.

Several Vancouver Island residents, though, still object to rain-increasing (scientists cannot yet "make" rain) activities as interefering with natural conditions.

"I've been opposed to it all along," said George I. Warren, commissioner, Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau. "It is cheating nature, and against it except in an extreme emergency. I took this stand when the Powell River Company first talked about rain-making two years ago."

The mainland firm has a contract with Water Resources Development Corporation of Denver, Colo., to increase rainfall on the watershed supplying its huge pulp mill. The company has six generators at east coast Vancouver Island points that have been in operation close to a year.

Rainmaking is an activity that should be discussed by the B.C. Natural Resources Conference, according to Roderick L. Haig-Brown, author, angling authority, and conservationist.

"It seems to be presuming a lot for someone to interfere with the elements," he said when the power commission first started the scheme at Campbell River.

12 Perish, 22 Drop 4 Floors in Chicago Fire

CHICAGO (AP) — Separate fires in a hotel and an apartment building at 1 a.m. claimed at least 12 lives today.

The bodies of eight victims, including that of a fire captain, were recovered from ruins of the Green Mill Hotel. The other four victims, including three children, died in the apartment house blaze.

Twenty-two residents of the four-story hotel, near downtown Chicago, leaped from the top floor of the hotel and were injured.

A fire department official declared the hotel blaze was set by an arsonist. Police were seeking to determine whether both fires, about a half-mile apart, resulted from arson.

Fishboat 'Just Minutes Late' To Revive Drowned Island Man

NANAIMO (BUP) — A railroad worker and his daughter drowned Wednesday during a holiday fishing trip in storm-tossed Nanoose Bay when the crew of a fishing boat were "just a few minutes too late" to rescue them.

Railway brakeman Herbert Beasey, 45, and his daughter, Mrs. Susan Square, 21, both of Wellington, near Nanaimo, were the victims of the double tragedy.

The fishboat Manhatten II entered the bay, 12 miles north of here, a few minutes after the 14-foot boat capsized and recovered the body of Beasey. Artificial respiration was applied but he was not revived.

Dragging operations were being conducted by the RCMP today for the body of the young woman, which was believed to have been swept out to sea.

Capt. Randolph Thompson of Gabriola Island, skipper of the Manhattan II, said "we started artificial respiration but could not revive him. We were just a few minutes too late.

The family learned of the tragedy when Beasey's son, Herbert, went to join the party on their outing Wednesday night.

Beasey, a brakeman on the Esquimal and Nanaimo Railway, is survived by his wife, a second daughter, and three other sons. Mrs. Square's husband is in South America.

Girl Sent Death Threat To 'Undercover' Officer

VANCOUVER (CP)—A note threatening to kill undercover constable Joe Haywood was written by an emotional 17-year-old girl, police said today.

A high police official, who asked that his name not be used, said "The girl wrote it herself, for reasons that can only be guessed at."

The note, reading "You will get it sooner or later, Haywood," was turned over to police Wednesday by the girl. She said it had been forced into her hands by two men, one with black eye and bandage around his neck.

She said the men trailed the bus she boarded until she took the note to police. No charges were laid against her.

Const. Haywood has been placed on day shift duty as a court officer attached to the services division. Guards still accompany him home.

Const. Haywood was shot at Monday while patrolling a lonely residential area beat. The shooting has been officially linked to his testimony which convicted William Semenick of drug trafficking and brought him a 10-year sentence.

RIGID CONTROL IN CANADA

No 'Impure' Vaccine Here

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

Canada's "rigid controls" of every phase of manufacture make it "almost impossible" for impure Salk vaccine to reach Canadian children.

Federal health officials at Ottawa acted today to reassure Canadian parents following a U.S. government ban against use of vaccine manufactured by Cutter Laboratories of Berkeley, Calif. Canada doesn't use the Cutter vaccine, and there'll be no stoppages in the nationwide inoculation campaign.

The U.S. ban was "a precautionary measure" because one child died and at least nine—possibly 11 — suffered paralysis from polio after receiving Cutter vaccine. U.S. government experts say they don't think the Cutter vaccine was responsible, but they want to be absolutely sure.

APPEAL TO PARENTS

Meanwhile, health authorities in the U.S. and Canada are urging parents and local health authorities to go ahead with any planned inoculations with Salk vaccine.

Dr. Leonard A. Scheele, U.S. surgeon-general, personalized the issue by announcing his seven-year-old son will be inoculated snortly in the Washington, D.C., program.

At Ottawa, an aide of Minister of Health Paul Martin said most of the vaccine in use in Canada at present—amounting to treatment for between 600,000 and 700,000 children—was produced by the Connaught Laboratories at the University of Toronto. The Institute of Microbiology at Montreal is the other Canadian producer.

The official did not know how much vaccine had been sold in Canada by two American companies — Eli Lilly and Parke Davis—licensed by Canada, but it was not thought to be a great deal. They account for about 60 per cent of the U.S. national production.

Saigon Fighting Kills 150

Absent Emperor Calls Parley

By LOUIS GUILBERT

SAIGON, Indo-China (UP)—The bloodiest battle of Free Viet Nam's swelling civil war raged in the streets of Saigon today.

At least 150 government troops loyal to American-backed Premier Ngo Dinh Diem were killed. At least 300 more were wounded.

Casualties among the rebellious Binh Xuyen sect of former river pirates were not known. The Binh Xuyen, who have controlled both vice and the police force in Saigon, have sworn to overthrow the premier.

PEACE CONFERENCE

In a surprise move, absentee Chief of State Bao Dai sent a cable from his villa on the French Riviera calling both sides to a peace conference at Cannes on May 5.

An entire quarter of thatched huts housing refugees from the Communist-controlled north went up in flames.

Screams of the trapped victims rose above the din of artillery and the sound of machineguns.

POLICE CHIEF FIRED

Immediate cause of the trouble was the dismissal of the Saigon police chief Lai Van Sang, a leader of the Binh Xuyen.

The fighting flared when Binh Xuyen troops, barricaded in the Petrusky high school, opened fire on a passing government convoy.

MAJOR ATTACK

Gen. Le Van Vie, the rebel commander, then unloosed a major attack on Saigon police headquarters.

Vie's forces also shelled the premier's palace-residence with mortars. Meanwhile government forces set fire to rebel gasoline stores in suburban Cholon.

The French promptly moved in and obtained a temporary cease-fire. But 80 minutes later, artillery firing started again. Smoke covered the city. Women, children and men refugees from the Communist-controlled north were in panic.

Hundreds of Americans with military, economic and other missions previously had been ordered out of danger and were presumed to be safe.

Too Many Pills

Actress Diana Barrymore responded satisfactorily today to treatment for an overdose of sleeping pills. Daughter of late John Barrymore was rushed to Boston hospital Wednesday night after collapsing in her hotel room. Husband Robert Wilcox said Diana had "collapsed from nervous exhaustion." Movie star Susan Hayward, who took an overdose of sleeping pills Tuesday, was released from hospital today.

Ottawa Kills Legion Plan On Jobless Pay

OTTAWA (CP)—A move by the Canadian Legion to bring all members of the armed forces under unemployment insurance on a contributory basis was set aside today by the Commons committee on veterans affairs.

On the motion of J. L. MacDougall (L, Vancouver Burrard), the committee agreed to recommend that the Legion's suggestion be held in abeyance pending a check of the willingness of servicemen to make unemployment insurance contributions.

At the same time, the committee approved a bill amending the Veterans Benefit Act which will cut off unemployment insurance protection for those who join the regular forces after July 1 this year. Those now in the regular forces get unemployment protection on discharge but their contributions are paid by the government.

Victoria MHO Warns Against Delaying Shots

Victoria-Esquimalt medical-health officer, Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffey, today warned parents that it would be dangerous to lose faith in Salk vaccine because of reports from California that inoculated children had contacted polio.

"People must understand that this is polio season," she said. "No one should slacken their effort in obtaining immunization for their youngsters as the vaccine becomes available."

She pointed out that "five or six out of 50,000 is a very small average — and those children probably were infected before inoculation."

Dr. Mahaffey said that in Victoria and Esquimalt the health department has almost completed administering second dosage of the vaccine.

Kind o' mean, I s'pose, but I keep linkin' Senate reform with unemployment relief.

Harnessin' th' Columbia River is important. But if they c'd jus' harness th' flood o' words about it, they'd really hev somethin'.

Requests Ottawa Aid On Mica Creek Plan

OTTAWA (BUP)—Both American and Canadian private concerns have expressed interest in building the proposed $247,000,000 Mica Creek dam on the upper Columbia River, B.C. Attorney-General Robert W. Bonner said today.

Bonner said the B.C. Power Commission also was interested in building the dam and he "believed it would be a proper agency to undertake that development."

But he said federal co-operation, either in the form of grants or low-interest loans, would be necessary. He also said federal-provincial co-operation would be needed to get industrial users for the power the dam would create.

Bonner told the Commons committee on external affairs that the technical evidence would permit the project to "go ahead now." He said the province was anxious to have Mica Creek and the Arrow Lakes storage plan pushed ahead.

But for the Mica Creek dam, he said, there were "economic factors yet to be settled." Markets for the large blocks of power would have to be found. He said industries that would give at least primary processing to British Columbia's strategic metals should be brought into the province to use the power.

He told the committee he feared a government bill to license improvements on international rivers would have the effect of "ruling the B.C. Power Commission off the Columbia."

Eden Willing To Hold Talks With Bulganin

Says East-West Tension Easing

LONDON (UP) — Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden said today he is hopeful a meeting with Russia can be arranged "shortly" to discuss east-west problems.

He also declared, "I am perfectly ready to meet Marshal Bulganin."

At the same time, Eden said Britain is ready to assist in talks between the United States and Communist China on the Formosa crisis.

Eden told the House of Commons that recent moves on German rearmament and an Austrian state treaty had brought a meeting with the Soviets closer.

"We have been agreed that before there can be useful talks with Soviet Russia, the Paris agreements must be ratified and progress made with the Austrian treaty," Eden stated.

"Now, fortunately, there has been progress with both these matters," he added.

This advance, Eden said, is "no accident but the logical outcome of Allied policy in building up the unity of the west."

Then Eden made his statement on the proposed meeting with Kremlin leaders.

"As a result of the recent progress, the way is now clear as far as we are concerned. We are ready and anxious to explore with the Soviet government the possibility of reaching agreement on all outstanding matters between east and west.

4 Fishermen Drowned

Boat Crew 'Just Minutes Late' To Revive Drowned Island Man

NANAIMO (BUP) — A railroad worker and his daughter drowned Wednesday during a holiday fishing trip in storm-tossed Nanoose Bay when the crew of a fishing boat were "just a few minutes too late" to rescue them.

Railway brakeman Herbert Beasey, 45, and his daughter, Mrs. Susan Square, 21, both of Wellington, near Nanaimo, were the victims of the double tragedy.

The fishboat Manhatten II entered the bay, 12 miles north of here, a few minutes after the 14-foot boat capsized and recovered the body of Beasey. Artificial respiration was applied but he was not revived.

Dragging operations were being conducted by the RCMP today for the body of the young woman, which was believed to have been swept out to sea.

Capt. Randolph Thompson of Gabriola Island, skipper of the Manhattan II, said "we started artificial respiration but could not revive him. We were just a few minutes too late.

The family learned of the tragedy when Beasey's son, Herbert, went to join the party on their outing Wednesday night.

Beasey, a brakeman on the Esquimal and Nanaimo Railway, is survived by his wife, a second daughter, and three other sons. Mrs. Square's husband is in South America.

Girl Sent Death Threat To 'Undercover' Officer

VANCOUVER (CP)—A note threatening to kill undercover constable Joe Haywood was written by an emotional 17-year-old girl, police said today.

A high police official, who asked that his name not be used, said "the girl wrote it herself, for reasons that can only be guessed at."

The note, reading "You will get it sooner or later, Haywood," was turned over to police Wednesday by the girl. She said it had been forced into her hands by two men, one with black eye and bandage around his neck.

She said the men trailed the bus she boarded until she took the note to police. No charges were laid against her.

Const. Haywood has been placed on day shift duty as a court officer attached to the services division. Guards still accompany him home.

Const. Haywood was shot at Monday while patrolling a lonely residential area beat. The shooting has been officially linked to his testimony which convicted William Semenick of drug trafficking and brought him a 10-year sentence.
